IF WE DON'T TAKE CARE OF SOVIET JEWS NOW, SOMEONE ELSE MIGHT.

It isn't only other Jews who are concerned about the millions of Jews still left in Russia.

In fact, many nationalist groups are openly demonstrating how they'd like to deal with the problem.

Groups like Pamyat, who blame Jews for many of Russia's current shortages.

But their solution doesn't involve airlifts, Israeli absorption or social services.

It's more a matter of violence, death threats and annihilation.

When they talk about "pogroms," they're not talking history.

Recently, The New York Times reported... "more than 50 desecrations of Jewish cemeteries, some 1,000 anti-Semitic rallies, and vitriolic hate leaflets in the thousands distributed everywhere."

What's happening in Russia is frightening. We must do something about it now. Through Operation Exodus, the United Jewish Appeal's urgent campaign, your donation will help re-settle hundreds of thousands of Soviet Jews in Israel, their homeland.

Please act now.
Before someone else does.
