

Facts About the Speizman Library

By Amalia Warshenbrot

What is the Speizman Jewish Library?

The Speizman Jewish Library is a Judaic library. This means that all of the books are of Jewish content or written by Jewish authors. You can also find Jewish magazines in English, Hebrew, Yiddish and Russian.

Where is it located?

The Speizman Jewish Library is located at Shalom Park in the Blumenthal Jewish Education Building (connects with the Jewish Community Center) across from the Religious School offices.

Who uses it?

The Speizman Jewish Library serves children and adults, Jewish and non-Jewish, the Religious Schools of each synagogue, the Charlotte Jewish Preschool, the Consolidated Jewish High School, and anyone else who seeks knowledge of Judaica. Many individuals, including college and high school students, visit the library for research on topics such as Jewish life, Israel, the Holocaust.

When is it open?

The Speizman Jewish Library is open when the Religious Schools are in session. Hours are: Sunday, 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; Monday, Closed; Tuesday & Thursday, 4:15-5:45 p.m.; Wednesday & Friday, 9:15 a.m.-1:45 p.m. (7-9 p.m. Wednesday only). Please call librarian Amalia Warshenbrot, 366-5007 ext. 258 for more information. You may leave a message at any time.
