Howard University Graduate School of Design announces the promotion of Preston Scott Cohen to Associate Professor of Architecture.

Cohen has received a grant from the William F. Milton Fund and an award from the Architecture League of New York. He has taught at Ohio State University and at the Rhode Island School of Design in Rome, Italy. He received his Master of Architecture degree from Harvard University.

He is the son of Jane Nelson.

After a three-year search for the right place to relocate, Andrew Weingarten, his wife Amy and their three sons, Lee, Russell and Matthew decided Charlotte was the right place.

With more than fifteen years of automotive experience as owner/operator of two service stations in New York, Weingarten has purchased a long-held (28 years) Aamco Transmission franchise on South Tryon St.

Dr. Scott Greenapple, who recently relocated to Charlotte, is no ordinary chiropractic physician. He is a certified sports physician and a member of the Council on Sports Injuries and Physical Fitness.

Congratulations To Barbara Ziegler For Her Award From Leadership Charlotte

On Wednesday evening, September 20th, Barbara Ziegler, Executive Director of the Teen Health Connection received the "Unsung Hero Award" along with Dr. John Johnston the Agency's Medical Director. The criteria for the Unsung Hero Award is: "an individual who works quietly behind the scenes for the good of Charlotte and whose leadership ability while not publicly

Barbara received her degree in Health Science from San Jose State University in California and moved with her family to Charlotte in 1979. She was the founder and former director of the Mecklenburg Council on Adolescent Pregnancy from 1981-1991. She has been the Executive Director of the Teen Health Connection since before the doors were opened. The Teen celebrated is evident in dedication and service to the community". This award was presented during the leadership Charlotte Lifetime Achievement Awards Dinner attended by 400 of Charlotte's leaders. She is a Leadership Charlotte class VI alumnus. The Jewish Federation of Greater Charlotte was well-represented at the event by Shel Goldstein, Phyllis Schiffman, Sara Schriebman, Vicki Hopkins, Emily Zimmern and Lynne Sheffer.

Health Connection opened its doors on Elizabeth Avenue in February 1992 and is nearing the 10,000 mark for patient visits. On August 9, Teen Health Connection was singled out for national recognition. President Clinton chose to visit the Teen Health Connection on his visit to Charlotte and recommended that every community have a teen health center using Teen Health Connection as a model.

Dr. Greenapple in action at the Hawaiian Ironman Triathlon

For the past four years, he has been chosen to work at the Hawaiian Ironman Triathlon and the International Police Winter Olympics in hockey for both U.S. and Canadian teams. Most recently, he was chosen to be a member of Team USA Medical Staff at this year's World Triathlon Championships in Cancun, Mexico, in November, 1995. He said, "It's great when all phases of health care, medical, orthopedist, chiropractors, and podiatrists, work together for one common goal - to help the athlete. It's wonderful when a Japanese or Brazilian athlete is injured, you provide treatment and they are able to finish their race. The glow in their eyes and the hug they give you is a universal language that makes it all worthwhile."

Dr. Greenapple, his wife Patrice (also a chiropractic physician) and two year-old son, Jason said they chose Charlotte to move to for 2 reasons - the beauty of the east coast and the strong Jewish community at the JCC.
