

What's New at the Charlotte Torah Center?

The Charlotte Torah Center is currently in the midst of the fall semester's Fundamentals of Judaism series. Registration for the winter semester is already on the way. This winter's offerings will include classes for both first and second level.

Rabbi Roizman will be teaching an advanced class in Torah. Participants will delve into the depths of the text, guided by some of the Jewish people's greatest sages: Maimonides, Nachmanodies, Maharal, Samson Rafael Hirsch, Chofetz Haim, Sfas Emes, to name but a few. Participants must be comfortable with Hebrew and Rashi text. For more information please call the Charlotte Torah center at 704-367-1225.

Professor Richard Cohen (UNCC) will be giving a lecture titled "Monotheism, Monism: Unity of Judaism, Christianity and Islam" on Wednesday, November 27, at 7:00 PM.

All classes are held at the center at 5900 Providence Road. Please feel free to give us a call at 704-367-1225 or email us at thectc@bellsouth.net. ☆

"Babaganewz" Editor to Speak to Area Teachers

November 8, 2002. Drinks and dessert will be provided for all. Please pre-register for the workshop programs and/or lunch by calling CAJE at 704-944-6780 or by email to: lsstein@vnet.net.

To check out Babaganewz magazine in advance, point your web browser to: www.babaganewz.com. Copies of Babaganewz are also available in the CAJE Resource Center or at the Speizman Library at Shalom Park.

The Carolina Agency for Jewish Education has adopted the national CAJE Conference 27 theme, "A Jewish Educators' Tool Kit" as the theme of this year's professional development learning opportunities. Our goal is to equip every Jewish teacher in our community with the Judaic learning tools to make their respective classrooms exciting, relevant, and meaningful educational environments. Join us for the kick-off of a year of programs on Tuesday, November 12.

For more information about this program, to register, or for more information about upcoming learning opportunities for teachers

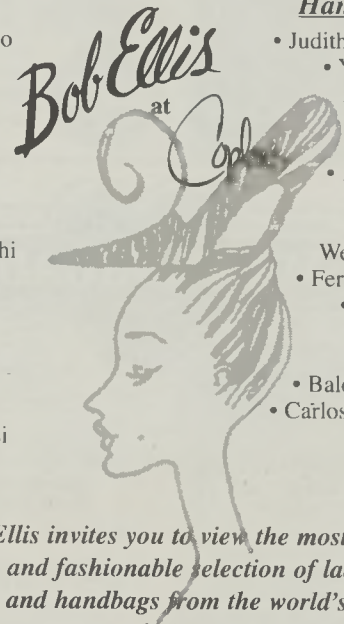

(and parents, too), contact CAJE at 704.944.6780 or email lsstein@vnet.net. ☆

The CTC's Sukkah building party was amazing, and much fun was had by all. While the adults were building the sukkah, the kids made beautiful decorations, which were later hung on the wall and roof of the sukkah.

Happy Hanukkah
