

Georgia Pre-Flight Team Favored in Tilt at Athens

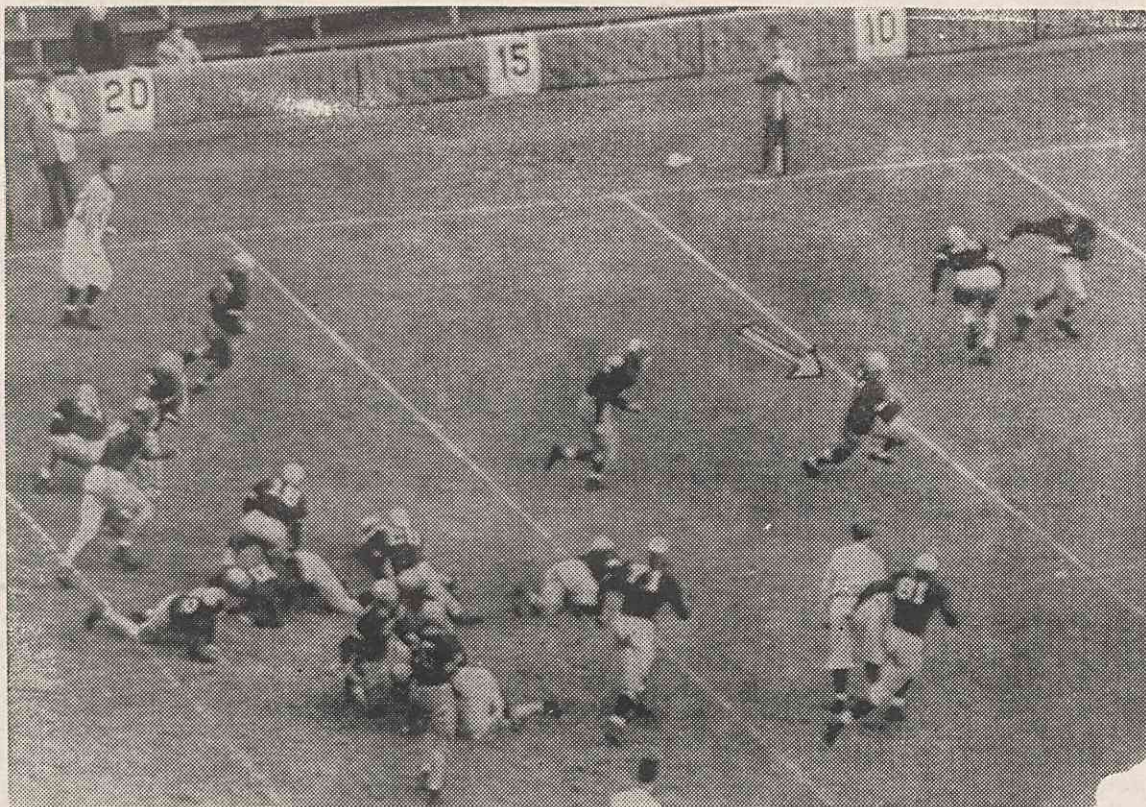

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 2—Tonight, on the University of Georgia field, Lieut. Ray Wolf has an excellent opportunity to do what he has failed to do in years past—beat Jim Crowley. The opportunity comes when Lieut. Wolf's Georgia Pre-Flight School football team clashes with Lieut. Comdr. Crowley's North Carolina Pre-Flight aggregation under the lights in the first game of the season between two Navy elevens.

As head coach at the University of North Carolina, Wolf bumped heads with Fordham University, coached by Crowley, several times and, with one exception, came out on the short end of the score. That one exception was a tie. Tonight Wolf's star-studded Skycracker squad is favored to whip the North Carolina Cloudbusters be-knocking down enemy aerials and Filchock's tosses may be damaging to a great extent. Crowley watched Catwba complete several yard-gaining passes and the same was true in practice scrimmages with Carolina and Duke. Harvard broke its receivers open many times but the passers missed the targets too often.

To offset Filchock, the 'Busters have Len Eshmont, the "Rapid Ram" who sparked the 2-touchdown attack that downed Harvard in the last six minutes of play. And running with Eshmont will be Cadet Joe Martin, the "Smokey Joe" of Cornell's Big Red last season. Cadet Mort Landsberg, another ex-Cornell star, won't be at full strength for the clash and the same is true of Cadet Charles Pierce, start-

Three New Marks Set in Track Meet

By CADET J. A. CAVANAUGH

Three inter-squadron military track records were toppled during the regimental track meet on Friday, Sept. 25.

Cadet R. O. Schaffer, of the Buccaneers, slashed three seconds off the record he set the week previous, this time crossing the tape in the 120-yard low hurdles in 15.1 seconds. The versatile Schaffer, who is a former Bucknell track ace, made it a record-shattering afternoon for himself by broad jumping 18 feet, 9 3/4 inches, to better the mark held by C. H. Carr of the Wildcats.

Schaffer's two first-places figured substantially in aiding the Buccaneers to win squadron honors with 31 1/2 points.

Cadets C. W. Biaselle, D. L. Wood, T. Avchen, and P. A. Ashby teamed together to give the Mustangs first place in the 440-yard relay by hanging up a new record of 47.2 seconds, .8 of a second faster than the former mark.

Laugh and Play the Lewis Way

With a little more cooperation on the part of the inmates of the first deck of Lewis last Saturday night, there would have been a good story.

At the 2300 bell that night Cadet Frank Lo Turco, who spent his town liberty in his bunk, was sleeping peacefully when his three roommates maliciously started to bellow those familiar early morning commands, "Hit the deck! All out, you swabs! Roll those beds back! Rip those sheets off!"

It worked . . . Slightly confused, and very sleepy, "the Turk" fumblingly donned his drawers, shoes, and socks; and towel in hand trotted out the door only to meet the entire rollicking complement of said deck, who promptly gave the play away.

The Turk was lucky. Led on by a less uproarious, and more malicious, audience, he might have fallen in for formation at the 2325 bell for tatoo.

COACH RAYMOND WOLF

fore a crowd not expected to exceed 5,000 fans.

The Georgia Pre-Flighters last Saturday turned back Pennsylvania University, regarded as the strongest collegiate team in the East, while the 'Busters were having a hard time downing a green Harvard outfit at Cambridge, Mass. And scouting Wolf's team was one of his former aides at Carolina, Lieut. (jg) John Vaught, now assisting Crowley with the Carolina Pre-Flight squad. Vaught is well-versed in the style of play employed by Wolf and he saw little in the way of new formations when Georgia took the field last Saturday. He did, however, see enough fast backs and hefty linemen to convince him the Cloudbusters are in for a tough night in Athens.

Brightest star on the Georgia team is Frank Filchock, one of the leading passers in the nation and also a threat as a running back. The Cloudbusters to date have indicated a weakness at

The Skycrackers will enjoy at least an 8-pound per man weight advantage in the line and will be slightly heavier in the backfield.

A man who wasn't on hand to worry Penn but who will be very much in tonight's scrap is "Jackrabbit" Jack Crain, former University of Texas star. Crain reported to Lieut. Wolf Monday and likely will see much service before the final gun.

The Penn game was the first for the Skycrackers and they are eager to make their record read two victories in two starts after tonight's battle. The Chapel Hill team downed Catwba, 13 to 2, and Harvard, 13 to 0. The other Pre-Flight Schools, at Iowa City, Ia., and St. Mary's, Calif., both are undefeated and both face stiff tests tomorrow.

Iowa's Seahawks romped over Kansas, 61 to 0, and last Saturday bested a strong Northwestern team, 20 to 12. Tomorrow they face Minnesota, king of the Big Ten gridirons, at Minneapolis, Minn.

St. Mary's Navy whipped College of the Pacific and last Saturday used a field goal in the last minute of play to down Oregon, 10 to 9. Tomorrow Lieut. Comdr. Tex Oliver sends his men against U.C.L.A., regarded as the "dark horse" in the Pacific Coast conference.
