

Wrestling

Wrestlers Win Sixth Straight

Losing only two matches—the 128-pound class and the unlimited—Navy's Pre-Flight wrestlers won their sixth straight victory here Monday afternoon, VPI the victim by a 28 to 8 score.

With Cadets Nist, Dorn, Sachel, Dillman, Landsberg, and Abram winning their matches in easy fashion, the Pre-Flighters again showed the calibre of wrestling that has made them the class of North Carolina and Southern Conference wrestling this year.

In the 128-pound class Dandenberg of VPI pinned Huckbee, and John Marcus of VPI decided Cadet McKeely in the unlimited division.

Cadets Nist, Dorn, Sachel, Landsberg, and Abram, all won their matches with pins, and Cadet Dillman decided Fitzimmons for the other cadet victory.

Wrestling summary:

121-pound class—Nist (Pre-Flight) pinned Hollins.

128-pound class—Dandenberg (VPI) pinned Huckabee.

See WRESTLERS, page 4

Sports Program

Coronados in Tie With Vindicators

Tied for top honors in the sports program are the Coronados and Vindicators with 49 points apiece. For the last three weeks the two have been fighting for top honors with the Coronados holding the honor one week, and the Vindicators the next. With only one more week left in the winter sports program, both have an equal opportunity to capture the coveted crown.

Last week's liberty award went to the squadron leading in points, and it was shared equally between the Coronados and Vindicators. The winner of tonight's liberty award goes to the league leading team in each sport.

The Coronado squadron has won three, lost five, and tied one in wrestling, won eight and lost four in volleyball, won one and lost one in swimming, won seven, and won two and tied one in boxing, and won 17 and lost two in basketball.

The Vindicators have won seven and lost two in wrestling, won six and lost five in volleyball, won one and lost one in swimming, won

See SPORTS, page 4

Reunion in Chapel Hill

Carl Snavely, Jr., and Ensign Gus Zitrides

From 1938 to 1942, Carl Snavely, Jr. played football at Cornell University. From 1939 to 1942, Gus Zitrides acted as assistant pigskin mentor at the college by Cayuga's waters.

Today, aviation Cadet Carl Snavely, Jr. is a blocking back on the Wildcat squadron, coached and supervised by Ensign Gus Zitrides.

Reunited by the war, naval aviation, and chance, both Cornellians—pigskinner and tutor—are now re-enacting familiar scenes, with Cadet Snavely (left) hitting the blocking post under the expert eye and advice of Zitrides.

A member of the 18th Battalion, the ex-Big Red footballer finds himself on familiar terrain these days, returning to fields that once witnessed the charges of Carolina teams coached by Carl Snavely, Sr., now head mastermind at Cornell.

In 1934 and 1935, Snavely, Jr. attended Chapel Hill High School and sat on the sidelines while Snavely, Sr. turned out national contenders for the Tar Heels.

At the same time, Gregory Zitrides was playing a little football at Dartmouth College, making All-Eastern guard in 1937 and 1938, All-American in 1938. After graduation from the New Hampshire school, the watch charm guard moved to Cornell to help tutor athletics for three years. Then he accepted a commission in the Navy.

Basketball

'Busters Score 56-47 Victory Over University of Virginia

Newcomers Ken Gunning and Jim McDonald paced the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight Cloudbusters to a 56-47 victory over the University of Virginia in Woollen gymnasium Wednesday afternoon.

It was the first win for the Cloudbusters in three starts, and 16 players saw action. Gunning, a former Indiana University ace, led the scoring with 16 points, most of which were made on a beautiful one handed push shot. McDonald, who attended Ohio State, scored but eight points, but his perfect passing set up several other Pre-Flight scores.

Hampscher and Chic with 11 and 10 points respectively were next to Gunning in scoring for the winners.

Only Dick Wiltshire, Virginia forward, could hit the basket with any consistency for the losers but his 22-point total, 16 in the first half, was unavailing. Pickett with eight was second high for Virginia.

Boxing

VPI Boxers Lose To Locals, 7-1

Lt. (jg) Allie Wolff's boxers won their second straight victory in as many starts, defeating VPI here Monday afternoon, 7 to 1.

After Cadet Donald Sholl, 120-pounder, dropped a close decision to VPI's Reilly in the opening bout, the Pre-Flighters proceeded to win the next seven fights in a row, three by forfeits.

Cadets Breithaupt, 130-pounder, Ankeney, 135, and Ruzula, 145, were the three Pre-Flighters who won their bouts on forfeits. Captain Raymond Jones won a clear cut decision over Vassare in the 150-pound weight.

Herbert Maroot, who likes to clown as much as he likes to fight and who does pretty well at both, won by a technical knockout over Spital in 1 minute, 45 seconds of third round. Both boys slugged it out for the first two rounds with Maroot holding a nice advantage.

Gallagher of VPI who won by a technical knockout in the first round against the University of North Carolina Saturday night found Lefty Steve Bogue a much tougher customer than his previous opponent. The cadet had things very much his own way, winning by a technical knockout

See BOXERS, page 4

Boxers Meet Citadel Here This Afternoon

This afternoon at 1430 the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight boxers go against the strong Citadel boxing team in Woollen gym.

Scheduled this past Thursday, Citadel has one of the finest boxing teams in the Southern Conference having defeated, among others, the University of North Carolina 4½ to 3½.

Probable fighting weights and lineups for this afternoon are as follows:

120-pound class—Sholl, Pre-Flight, vs. Pick.

127-pound class—Breithaupt, Pre-Flight, vs. Miller.

135-pound class—Ankeney, Pre-Flight, vs. Foster.

145-pound class—Jones, Pre-Flight, vs. Shugan.

155-pound class—Ruzula, Pre-Flight, vs. Carr.

165-pound class—Maroot, Pre-Flight, vs. Vasides.

175-pound class—Bogue, Pre-Flight, vs. Victor.

Unlimited—Esposito, Pre-Flight, vs. Gennero.