

Saluting Practices Here Are Outlined By Executive Officer

Saluting courtesies now in effect at this station were outlined in a statement issued last week by Lt. Comdr. James P. Raugh, USNR, Executive Officer.

Since "it is not practicable to exchange salutes with appropriate care and dignity under all circumstances, especially in areas of the station where large groups of personnel are congregated, certain deviations from this customary courtesy are recognized here," the Executive Officer stated.

Accordingly, salutes will not be exchanged: on athletic fields; in stands adjacent to athletic fields; in the gymnasium, swimming pool and Tin Can; in the areas of the boxing and wrestling pavilions; on the first deck of Alexander Hall, and in the Cadet Store and at the Cadet Store soft drink stand. However, when juniors address or are addressed by seniors in these areas, salutes will be exchanged.

Persons driving automobiles or riding bicycles need not be saluted by juniors and are not required to return any salutes.

Cadets are not required to change pace or salute when double timing to formation.

Officers and cadets on Duty Status will render the usual courtesies at all times.

V-5 OFFICERS

Haven, Fla.; Portland, Me.; New Orleans, La.; Texarkana, Tex.; and Little Rock, Ark., were represented.

One group of visitors were students from Asheville College, and two were professors from Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, who were on a tour studying physical conditioning programs in order to institute similar training at that college.

Many servicemen have registered, including majors, captains, lieutenants, and privates in the Army, and varying ranks in the Navy and Marine Corps.

Volunteer hostesses this weekend at Navy Hall will be Mrs. Andrew C. McIntosh on Saturday afternoon, and Miss Joy Ellen Dickinson on Sunday afternoon.

Softball League for Officers, Enlisted Men Being Formed

A combination officers and crew softball league is now being organized, with play expected to start next week.

The enlisted men will be represented by three teams composed of players from the hospital corps, signal corps, and yeomen's pool. The exact number of officers' teams was not known at this writing, since the list of those desiring to play was not yet completed.

The officers' teams will not be formed according to departments, but each team will have players from a variety of activities. Thus if officers from a particular department are unable to be present on some afternoons, it is hoped that sufficient players will be present to carry on the game without cancellation.

The games will be played on Wednesday afternoons.

SMOKER

brought to the Pre-Flight audience through a loud speaker system installed at Emerson Stadium where the Smoker is being held. In case of bad weather the affair will move indoors to Memorial Hall. Because of the broadcast, starting time of the Smoker has been changed from the usual 1915 to 1900, and ALL THOSE ATTENDING ARE REQUESTED TO BE SEATED NO LATER THAN 1850.

Among the Pre-Flight favorites expected to be played by Fred Waring's band—if radio clearance can be obtained—is Flyin' High, naval aviation song which was written by Cadet James Leydon, Jr., of the First Battalion last summer and which has been popular here ever since.

Other tunes voted by the cadets here last week to be played on the Waring program are: Blue Skies, Pennsylvania Polka and The Navy Hymn.

The remainder of the Smoker entertainment will consist of a specialty act, a trampoline and tumbling exhibition, music by the Cloudbuster harmony quartet featuring Richard Warren, cadet leader of the Glee Club, and rapid rhythms by a jive section organized by Bugler B. J. Travaglia.

EXHIBITION

a high jumping exhibition, and Ensign Peter Fick, USNR, Pre-Flight assistant swimming coach.

Ens. Warmerdam cleared the bar at three different heights, the highest of which was 14 feet 3 inches. Ens. Turnesa described the correct way to use the various golf clubs, and Lieut. Pitkin traced the development of the different styles of high jumping.

Ens. Fick described the Pre-Flight swimming program and its purpose, and gave an exhibition of his own swimming ability.

T. M. Lynch, USN, Appointed Chief Warrant Officer

Former Chief Pharmacist's Mate Thomas M. Lynch, USN, has been appointed to the rank of Chief Warrant Officer. A holder of the Navy Cross, he has been in the service for some 25 years.

His high naval award was received for the display of leadership and bravery under fire, while serving as a medical assistant with the U. S. Marines in 1932 when the Leathernecks were purging Nicaragua of Sandino's bandits.
