Who will win the Duke-Navy game to be played in Baltimore to-night?

That question has been asked a million times during the past week, and in most cases it has been directed toward members of the coaching staff, the football team, and those officers who saw both Duke and Navy defeat the Cloudbusters.

Unlucky as it might be, 13 persons were asked to express an opinion on the outcome of the game. Ten favored the Navy, three Duke.

Lieut. Frank Kimbrough, USNR, head football coach, predicted Navy would win, 19 to 7. "Navy has the advantage of spring practice," stated Kimbrough, "and their men are used to playing with one another."

Chief Boatswain Mate, William L. "Dutch" Boerstler, strings along with Kimbrough and predicts a 19 to 7 victory for the Naval Academy.

On the Duke side of the ledger Lt. (jg) William Krywicki, USNR, thinks Duke will win, 14 to 6. "Duke has better backs and better punting," says Krywicki.

Lieut. Comdr. Burton Ingwersen, USNR, Athletic Director, wouldn't predict a score on the game, but he felt Navy would win.

Stringing along with Kimbrough were his two aides—Lt. (jg) Glenn Presnell, USNR, backfield coach, and Ensign William C. Jarnagin, USNR, line coach. Presnell predicts the score to be 13 to 7 in favor of Navy while Jarnagin believes Navy will win, 20 to 7.

"Navy has the better line, and this will decide the game," says Lt. (jg) Lou Young, USNR. "Navy will win, 21 to 13."

Lieut. George E. Shepard, USNR, Assistant Athletic Director, feels Navy will win, 20 to 14, while Lt. (jg) G. B. Williams, varsity equipment manager, calls the score, 20 to 7, in favor of the boys from Annapolis.

Lieut. Glenn Killinger, USNR, favors Navy by one touchdown.

Lieut. Lyal W. Clark, USNR, comes through for Duke, 21 to 7, and Lt. (jg) Richard Cassiano, USNR, the former Pittsburg back, also favors the Blue Devils, 20 to 14.

Comdr. John P. Graff, USN (Ret.), U. S. Naval Academy Class of 1920 and possibly a bit prejudiced in the matter, predicts a Navy win of 35 to 13.

Soccer Team Defeats Duke University, 4 to 3

Scoring two goals in quick succession midway the second period, the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight soccer team won its second consecutive contest over Duke at Durham Wednesday afternoon, 4 to 3.

Leading the Cloudbuster attack was cadet Harry Morris, who scored three of Pre-Flight's four goals. Cadet Charles Stevens, on a nice dribble down the sidelines, scored the final marker on a beautiful 20-yard shot.

While Morris did most of the scoring Cadet Charles Jackline also did outstanding offensive work. He set up the first goal on a pass to Koelsch, who in turn passed to Morris for the score. The second tally was made on a pass from Jackline to Morris as was the third.

Pre-Flight scored first, Duke tied it up a moment later. Just before the first period ended Pre-Flight scored again to take a 2 to 1 lead at half-time. To start the second period, Duke tied up the game. Then came the two Pre-Flight scores.

Both Duke and Pre-Flight used two complete teams.
