squadrons and her three escort vessels, and that medals already had been pinned on most of the skippers participating in the running epic of submarine destruction.

Elsewhere in the CLOUDBUSTER will be found additional information about the heroic work of the men on the Card; the football game, witnessed by 2,500 fans, mostly Naval Personnel, can be told, in part, here.

The winners, present leaders in the Sports Program, scored their first touchdown midway the second quarter when Cadet R. J. Mascolino went through center and ran 30 yards to score. Cadet Schroth kicked the extra point.

The final touchdown came in the fourth period when Schroth went over from the eight yard line.

Coach of the ship team was Lieut. J. T. Kimbriel, USNR, who was at one time attached to this station as Battalion Officer.

Concerning his football team, Coach Kimbriel told a CLOUDBUSTER reporter that they had been working out for the past five weeks, mostly at night.

"Our practice sessions were limited to the ship with the exception of two days when we were at Casablanca," Kimbriel informed the CLOUDBUSTER. "Our biggest trouble at first was the loss of footballs from the deck of the carrier. We lost 10 before our trainer made us one out of canvas."

Until the game with the Mariners the Card eleven had not worn shoulder or hip pads before.

Real Admiral Elliott Buckmaster

ADMIRAL

of Naval Air Primary Training since the fall of 1942.

Under his leadership the Naval Air Primary Training Command has done an admirable job in coordinating the primary training functions of the naval aviation program. Only recently the functions of the Command were expanded to include operation of the Navy's 17 Flight Preparatory Schools and 90 CAA-War Training Schools, in addition to the five Pre-Flight Schools and 14 Naval Air Stations devoted to primary flight. Inclusion of these Flight Preparatory and CAA-WTS units under NAPTC integrated the entire naval air primary training system under a single jurisdiction.

Admiral Buckmaster was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for services as Commanding Officer of the Yorktown in action against the Japs from May 4 to May 8, 1942. He was awarded the Gold Star, in lieu of a second DSM, for service as Commanding Officer of the Yorktown in the Battle of Midway.

He also possesses the Mexican Service Medal, Victory Medal, Escort Clasp, American Defense Service Medal and Fleet Clasp.

Personnel Changes

Four officers were detached during the past week.

They included Lieut. Alexander Sabo, USNR, of the Athletic Department, Special Details, and Lieut. George E. Shepard, USNR, Assistant Athletic Director, both transferred to Commander Air Force, Atlantic Fleet, Norfolk, Va.; Lt. (jg) Lewis L. Tignor, USNR, Assistant, Labor Engineering, to NAS Jacksonville, Fla.; Lt. (jg) Edmund D. Harris, USNR, Assistant, Labor Engineering, to CAA-WTS, Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis.
