45 Officers Receive Survival Instruction Here

A fortnight of realistic survival training for 45 Navy and Coast Guard officers from all over the country came to a close here yesterday.

Beginning with a series of classroom lectures, instructional movies, and short field trips during the first week of training, the course steadily increased in toughness and realism, reaching its cli-

A touch of the real thing was added to the instructor's course in survival last Wednesday morning when a twin-engine Beechcraft piloted by Ens. Huxtable from the Elizabeth City, N. C., Coast Guard station, and carrying Lieut. Brewbaker, circled the Haw River Camp Site for the better part of an hour.

Distress signals were practiced as though between lost-in-the-jungle pilots and would-be rescuers.

max with a six-day living-in-the-rough field trip which came to a successful conclusion last Thursday.

Officer-in-charge of the Instructor's School in Survival is Lieut. Stuart P. Brewbaker from Athens, Ga. Head instructor for the two-weeks' course at this station is Lieut. G. D. Kepler, assisted by Lt. (jg) Frank C. Craighead and Lt. (jg) John C. Craighead.

Purpose of the special survival course is to broaden the back-

Movie Schedule

Sat., Sept. 9—Free movie at Village Theatre, "Show Business" with Eddie Cantor, George Murphy, and Constance Moore. Feature starts at 1907 and 2048. Complete show one hour, 39 minutes.

Sun., Sept. 10—Free movie at Village Theatre, "Up in Arms" with Danny Kaye and Dinah Shore. Feature starts at 1310 and 1502. Complete show one hour, 52 minutes.

Sports Program Wednesday Night

The last outdoor Sports Program Championship of the year will be held next Wednesday at 1830 on Fetzer Field.

During the fall and winter months, competition between the various battalions will be held during the regular Sports Program period. The early hour of darkness during this period was the reason for the change, but spectators will still have an opportunity to see Cloudbuster teams perform during the varsity football schedule during the fall, and the basketball, wrestling, and boxing competition during the winter.

As usual, the Navy Pre-Flight band will be on hand this coming Wednesday. The only change in the program is the time being moved up to 1830.
