Cloudbusters Score Week's Biggest Upset

Defeat Naval Academy, 21-14 At Annapolis

An underdog U. S. Navy Pre-Flight football team rose to unexpected heights last Saturday afternoon at Annapolis, defeating the famed Naval Academy team, 21 to 14.

Otto Graham, Stan Koslowski and Frank Aschenbrenner received most of the headlines in the victory, but it can be said, truthfully, that every Cloudbuster who saw action played an important role in the outcome.

At the ends Warren Anderson, Melbourne Sheehan, Wally Schumacher and Wayne Harding did yeoman work throughout. The tackle spots were handled by George Lorentz, Ben Lum, Ray Bray, Leland Yager, George Copeland and Dan Williams. Kermit Atkinson, Gene Flick, Austin Gandy, and Bill Clements were the guard standouts, and Joe Partington, Wesley Coleman and Ralph Huneycutt did a fine job at center.

The starting backfield of Otto Graham, Spec Sanders, Bill Wilson and Stan Koslowski got fine relief work from J. T. Levay, Buell St. John, Dan Weitekamp and Frank Aschenbrenner. Only Graham played the full 60 minutes.

Pre-Flighters Tackle Duke At Durham

Duke's Blue Devils, always a gridiron powerhouse, will play host to the Cloudbusters this afternoon at 1500 in Durham. A crowd of 25,000 is expected.

All week the Pre-Flighters have been working for today's encounter, and Lieut. Comdr. Glenn Killinger, head mentor, announced the team at top physical strength. No one was hurt in the Naval Academy game last week.

Duke has two veteran backs in the persons of Gordon Carver and Tom Davis. It was Carver who scored the Blue Devil's winning touchdown over Georgia Tech last year. Davis, who will be one of the outstanding backs on the field, participated in Duke's last Rose Bowl encounter and emerged one of the stars. Only recently he was discharged from the Marines.

At the ends Duke will have Reece Harry and Clark Jones, both good on defense and offense. Tackles will be played by Frank Irwin and John Kerns.

The guard spots will be handled by Garland Wolfe, and Ernie "Bear" Knotts. At the pivot position See DUKE TODAY, page 4

The Pre-Flight swing band will furnish the music, with added entertainment by the cadets themselves during the intermission. Refreshments will be served throughout the dance.
