Air Battle Looms Between Pre-Flighters

Cadet Regiment To Dance Tonight In Woollen Gym

The first cadet regimental dance of the fall season will be held in Woollen gym this evening from 2100 to 2400.

Music will be furnished by the Pre-Flight orchestra under the direction of Chief Musician E. G. Smart, and refreshments will be served.

Four of the bandsmen will take turns handling the vocals, including William K. Chapman, Mus3c, Paul B. Coman, Mus3c, F. L. Poole, Mus3c, and Andrew L. Gardner, Mus3c.

Liberty for the regiment has been extended tonight to 0030, with lights out at 0045.

Pre-Flight Officers To Participate In Navy Day Programs

Pre-Flight School officers will perform a prominent role in the celebration of Navy Day throughout the state next week. Starting next Tuesday and continuing through Navy Day on Friday, Oct. 27, local officers are scheduled to appear at 10 functions in eight North Carolina cities.

Biggest celebration in the state will be at Winston-Salem next Friday, in which Lt. Comdr. James P. Raugh, Commanding Officer, and Lt. Comdr. Howard L. Hamilton, Executive Officer, will participate.

Tuesday noon, Lieut. Clyde Carpenter, of the ENS department, will give the first of his six Navy Day speeches before an American Legion group in Lexington. That evening he will appear at High

Two Clubs Meet For Third Time At 1430 Today

Two of the top service teams in the nation—the Skycrackers of Georgia and the Cloudbusters of North Carolina—will square off this afternoon at 1430 in Kenan Stadium in the top football game for this section this week end.

The visitors, coached by Lieut. Raymond W. "Ducky" Pond, famous for his coaching at Yale University, arrived in Chapel Hill last night. The team, on the whole, is in fine shape, and the Cloudbusters are expecting one of their toughest games of the season.

To date the Skycrackers have played three games. In the season opener they defeated South Carolina, 20 to 14, and the following week end handed the Cherry Point Marines a 33 to 0 shellacking. The Cloudbusters had to come from behind to defeat this same Marine outfit, 27 to 14.

Last Sunday, at Athens, the visitors dropped their first contest, a 19 to 7 defeat at the hands of the Third Air Force Gremlins. At halftime they were ahead, 7 to 6, and a couple of tough breaks got them in trouble during the second period. Incidentally, the Skycrackers are the only team to score against the Gremlins this year.

The season record of the Cloudbusters, other than the 27 to 14 Marine victory, include a 21 to 14 win over the Naval Academy, a 13 to 6 win over Duke and a 13-13 tie with Virginia. Currently the team is rated 10th in the nation in the weekly Associated Press Poll.

Twice previously the two clubs have met. Two years ago at Athens, the game ended in a 14-14 tie, and last year the Skycrackers won, 20 to 7.
