

Track Squad Faces Virginia Tomorrow

'Busters Defeated By Strong Georgia PFS Team, 57-75

Beaten by a strong, well-balanced Georgia Pre-Flight track team last week, 57 to 75, the Cloudbusters are hopeful of returning to winning stride tomorrow when they will entertain the University of Virginia at Fetzer Field at 1315.

Against the Skycrackers at Athens, Coach Charles Beet-ham's team won seven of the 15 first places but Georgia was too strong in the field events and captured a majority of the second and third places. Previously Georgia Pre-Flight had defeated Georgia Tech, while the Cloudbusters had won handily over Duke.

Daum Double Winner

J. W. Daum of the 64th Batt was the high scorer for Carolina Pre-Flight, winning the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles. C. S. Bacik of the 65th, consistent winner in his specialty, won the 440-yard dash; J. E. MacDonald took the discus, W. I. Francis triumphed in the two-mile run and J. A. McCoy was the broad jump winner.

The seventh first place captured by the Cloudbusters was the mile relay, with G. R. Pokrant, W. J. Cunningham, E. R. Weipert, and J. F. Moore running in that order.

As proof of their superiority in the field events, the Skycrackers won the shot put, high jump, pole vault and javelin, as well as the 100- and 220-yard dashes, the 880 and the mile.

The Sailor President

The late Chief Executive, whose love of the Navy was active and enduring, was indeed the Sailor President. He was equally at home on the quarterdeck of a battleship or aboard some small, humble craft, scudding before the wind and whitecaps.

Deep sea fishing at some remote spot—a Presidential Review of the Fleet with the great guns booming—a dashing cruiser splitting the waves—loafing seaward with the sand-and-rock-guarded lighthouses mere specks of haze upon the horizon—it was all the same to the Chief Executive to whom the sea was the pulsation of life.

He Was Hungry

National League scuttlebutt is that Vince DiMaggio, recently traded by Pittsburgh to the Phillies, became persona non grata when he ate a $9 meal last July and charged same to the Pirates. "I was hungry," Vince is quoted as saying.

He made the U. S. Navy the world's best. Champion of a big Navy he was, dating back to his pre-World War I days as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. He brought to his task an appreciation of the traditions and history of the service. Preparedness afloat was his keynote, long before others sensed its importance in those years of World War I—and afterward.

When nominated for the Presidency at Chicago, Mr. Roosevelt told the assembled delegates that he was "thankful for my Navy training." For in great moments in the life of this man, the Navy sailed uppermost in his thoughts.

Hari-Kiri Is No Longer Held A Virtue As OWI Says Navy Losses Are 262,000

Pacific (CNS)—An acute manpower shortage in the Japanese Navy is putting a crimp in that fine old Jap custom of hari-kiri.

The Officer of War Information, in a report on manpower losses in the Jap Navy, based on official information from the Navy Department and other U. S. Government agencies, says:

State Holds Indian Sign On Pre-Flight In Ration Loop Play

Any time the Ration League schedule calls for the Cloudbusters to meet a team other than North Carolina State it will be all right with Coach Wes Schulmerich. Three times so far the 'Busters have played league games and each time the opponent, State, has won.

Latest defeat for the Cloudbusters was Wednesday's 13-to-4 victory by the Red Terrors, who because of an early graduation will finish their campaign more than a month earlier than Pre-Flight, Duke and North Carolina. Thus the trio of games with the 'Busters, as well as a fourth straight engagement here next Wednesday.

Lejeune Here Sunday

Outside of the Ration League however, the Schulmerich nine is tasting varied competition. Tomorrow the 'Busters are scheduled to play Catawba at Salisbury and on Sunday they will entertain the Camp Lejeune Marines at Emerson Stadium at 1500.

The 13-to-4 win by State on Wednesday was the second loss for the 'Busters during the last week. On Sunday the Cherry Point Marines won, 12 to 5, despite a homer with loaded bases by Catcher Bill Baker. This tied the score at 4-4 in the third inning but in the fifth the Marines easily pulled away.

Again in the State game Pre-Flight was locked in a 4-4 tie until the Terrors' half of the fourth, when State rang up five runs. Another quartet of runs in the fifth cinched it.

Ration League standings:

	W	L	Pct.
North Carolina	1	0	1.000
N. C. State	3	1	.750
Duke	0	0	.000
Pre-Flight	0	3	.000
