

S. S. Convention Next Wednesday

SANDY CROSS M. E. CHURCH.
NASHVILLE, N. C.

This Convention is for all denominations of the county. A splendid program has been prepared and there will be three sessions—morning, afternoon and night. Every school is urged to send as many delegates as possible. At least six, also as many other people as will come. Dinner will be served on the ground and everyone attending is asked to bring a basket lunch.

The night session will be in the interest of young people's work but all the adults are invited as the program is sure to be interesting to them also. A beautiful dramatization will be put on entitled, "DEDICATION OF YOUTH IN BUILDING A NEW COMMUNITY," directed by Miss Thelma Colie of Spring Hope.

At the close of the night session a pennant will be given the school making the best record during the entire three sessions.

Rev. Shuford Peeler, general secretary, and Miss Myrtle A. McDaniel, Director Leadership Training of the State Association from Salisbury, will be present and take part as well as local people.

Resolutions

Whereas God in His infinite love and tender mercy hath seen fit to call home our beloved friend and co-worker, Mrs. Pete Daniels, on June 9th, 1935, therefore, be it resolved: First, that we, the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church of Spring Hope North Carolina, have lost one of our most faithful and consecrated members. Her loss will be keenly felt, for she was loyal to her church and her Sunday school class. Second: that her life has indeed been a blessing to those of us who knew and loved her, and that her example will ever shine as a light to those of us who follow on. Third: that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our Society, a copy sent to the family, and one to The Nash County News for publication.

Mrs. Albert May,
Mrs. L. T. Bartholomew,
Mrs. J. L. Gay (Sec.)
Committee.

Selecting Seed Corn in Field

Negro Vocational Agriculture Department

Seed corn should be selected in the field just before the fodder is pulled and tagged, so the fodder will be left on the stalks. One good method to follow is when the first stalks are beginning to turn brown. Another good reason the selection should be made in the field rather than from the crib, is because it is necessary, in order to make the wisest selection, to know the condition under which the "ideal" ear was produced, and also a study of the parent plant can best be made. Remember, "Like produces like."

The things to be considered in making your selection are as follows: 1. Select seed from stalks free of disease, such as root, stalk and ear rot, and smut. The first stalks in the field to turn brown may sometimes be diseased and should not be selected. 2. Should be selected from stalks that grow under normal conditions. Avoid stalks next to a skip or one making unusual growth. 3. Select the stalks which bear two good ears as near as possible. 4. The ear should be four or five feet from the ground, with medium length shank and should point downward in order that they may be protected from falling rains. The shuck should be thick, tight and cover the ear well at the ends. 5. Only such ears should be chosen as conform in size and shape to the standards set for the variety, the stalks should also be well anchored. 6. Smooth rather than rough ears should be selected. 7. Only matured ears should be selected. If the ear twists easily it should not be selected for seed.

CAMELS DON'T UPSET MY NERVES OR AFFECT MY WIND THEY ARE SO MILD AND TASTE RICHER AND SMOOTHER

I CAN BACK UP WHAT THE ATHLETES SAY: CAMELS NEVER INTERFERE WITH MY CONDITION, AND I GET A 'LIFT' WITH A CAMEL, TOO

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. P. E. DANIEL

Goodnight, and not goodbye little sister. Just a few weeks ago we stood with heads bowed in sorrow and hearts broken as all that was mortal of you was tenderly given back to kind mother earth. How short your span of life on earth, as we count the years; but how very long in doing deeds of kindness for those with whom you were associated. In Heaven with God and the angels we feel sure those kind hands are busy. Otherwise you would not be happy.

As a little girl you were thoughtful of others. Left motherless at eighteen months of age you were peculiarly my own special and very dear charge through all your child and girlhood years. How dearly I loved you!

Once I saw you on the threshold of eternity and you whispered, Sister, it's alright, I'm not afraid. But your precious life was spared to us and how beautifully and nobly you gave of it to your loved family and friends. Only those closest to you knew of the many times you went out into the highways, seeking the aged and sick, bringing them to church, going into homes where there was sorrow and comforting bereaved hearts, tenderly caring for anyone in trouble. Often you were ill yourself, but how lovingly and humbly you did it all, darling sister, thankful of an opportunity to serve the Saviour you loved so well. We know that now you are reaping your reward.

Oh, how we who are left behind grieve for you. The days without your dear presence are so long and weary, but we know that He who rules the Heaven and earth knows best, and while we stumble through the dark like frightened children, we will hold His hand and say, "Thy will be done."

To Edward, your heartbroken husband who loved you so dearly, to the four older children, Curtis, Derby, Jean and Francis, to myself and to our three dear brothers I say "Follow the example she set and we, too, shall sit at the Master's feet and hear the words, Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

To Frederick Eugene, the wee new babe, named for my loved husband, has been left a rich and glorious heritage. May we be given the power and wisdom to guide those little feet along the path his lovely Christian mother would have him tread.

We must carry on as best we can but as we loved you in life so do we miss you in death.

Again, goodnight, sweet sister, until the morning comes when those dear eyes will open with recognition and love for those who now mourn, but will then rejoice and be happy evermore.

Always and forever. — "Sister."
