Autumn Adds Lure To The Open Road

Crispness and color of incoming autumn, and the carefree tempo of bright skies of lingering summer. Put them together and you have a suggestion of September, a delightful month in North and South Carolina—from mountains to coastal vacationlands. Varied accommodations and the crowded roster of scenic attractions and recreational facilities stand ready to add zest and enjoyment to the Firestone traveler's life in September.

The travel information service of the plant Recreation Department puts the September attractions in this broad East-to-West reminder: The first tints of autumn color appear on the higher peaks of the Blue Ridge and the Great Smokies. Beaches continue warm for swimming and sun bathing, and the fishing's prime.

Speaking of fishing, this note from the travel service is especially for devotees of the angler-art:

THE NORTHEAST South Carolina Anglers' Rodeo at Myrtle Beach is scheduled from Labor Day through November 30. The event, to be known as "NESCAR", will be open to surf, pier and deep-sea fishermen along the South Carolina coast from the North Carolina State line through Murrell's Inlet.

Many cash prizes and trophies will be presented to anglers who land prize-winning catches during the three-month event. Weekly prizes are being offered as well as grand prizes at the end of the rodeo.

Deep-sea fishing boats, piers, and other fishing interests from the North Carolina State line through Murrell's Inlet will participate in NESCAR. Coastal communities in this 30-mile area include: Little River, East Cherry Grove Beach, Cherry Grove Beach, Tilghman Beach, Ocean Drive Beach, Crescent Beach, Windy Hill Beach, Briarcliff, Myrtle Beach, Surfside, Garden City Beach, and Murrell's Inlet.

NESCAR is open to men, women, and children and no entrance fee will be charged. Fishing rodeo programs listing rules and regulations, the prize list, and participating piers, boats, and weighing stations are available from the Myrtle Beach, S. C., Chamber of Commerce.

ONE OF the most colorful events of the September travel calendar in North Carolina is the Cherokee Indian Fair, set for September 24-28. The setting is the Qualla Boundary, home of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. Fairgrounds are at the town of Cherokee, on US 441 near the entrance to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Archery and blow-gun contests, the traditional rough and tumble game of stickball and Indian dances are on each day's schedule during the lively program. Cherokee handicrafts are exhibited along with farm products.

When you've got a long journey in front of you, what's the sense of storing up your joy until you get to the end of the way? Try to get some fun out of the road.—Howard Spring

Coast-to-mountains in North Carolina there are altogether 30 county agricultural fairs during the ninth month. Of top interest are those on the local scene, including Spindle Center Agricultural Fair, near Lowell, September 9-14; Beth-Ware Community Fair, Kings Mountain, 11-14; and Cleveland County Fair, Shelby, 17-21.

A SELECTED list of other fairs in communities within a few hours travel distance from Gastonia: Catawba County, Hickory, 9-14; Rutherford County, Rutherfordton, 9-14; Caldwell County, Lenoir, 16-21; Cabarrus County, Concord, 16-21; Iredell County, Statesville, 16-21; Stanly County, Albemarle, 17-22; Alexander County, Taylorsville, 18-20; Rowan County Agricultural and Industrial, Salisbury, 23-28; Lee County, Sanford, 24-29.

The Five-County Fair at Zebulon will be staged September 24-29.

Most outstanding fair in the Gastonia area is the Southern States, Charlotte, October 1-5.

A brief rundown of other outstanding events in the North State: Annual Invitation Seniors Four Ball Golf Tournament, Linville, 10-13; "Golden Queen Pageant", Selma, 11-12; First Annual Boat Show, White Lake, 15-21; Antique Auto Show, Raleigh, 28-29; International Cup Regatta, Elizabeth City, 28-29.

This special note to Firestone hunters: State-wide dove season opens September 7 and continues through October 5.

Mark September 17 As Constitution Day

On September 17, 1787 the fundamental organic law of the United States was completed and signed. The Constitution, embodying the governing principles of this country, was framed by 55 delegates—not all of whom were present—at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, when the Constitutional Convention met during the summer of 1787.

The historic document became the guiding principle and supreme law of the Republic which had won its freedom with the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776.

Date of adjournment of the Constitutional Convention—September 17—has been selected in recent years for the national observance of Constitution Day. This day which commemorates one of the most significant achievements in American history, is not a legal holiday.

But on September 17 each year, patriotic Americans welcome the opportunity to display the Flag with pride and to celebrate Constitution Day in various other ways. Every year in New York City, Sons of the American Revolution conduct a ceremony at the site of Federal Hall, where George Washington took the oath of office as first President under the Constitution.

And across the nation in civic clubs, citizenship classes, patriotic societies and schools, special programs honor the Constitution and memorialize the spirit of the nation's founders who bequeathed to posterity the basis of liberty, justice and freedom.

The engagement of Miss Mary Ann Bowman to Barber Joe Westmoreland has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles E. Bowman of Hickory, N. C. Date for the wedding has not been set. The prospective bridegroom is employed in Carding. His father, Roscoe Westmoreland, is a frame tender in Carding.
