

CAK Agent Joe Grady spent days planning and decorating a special tree for Christmas, then gave his creation to the Holiday Tree Festival benefiting Akron Children's Medical Center. Grady, with help from other employees, collected 100 signatures from well-known people in the entertainment, sports and political arenas to decorate his tree. "Christmas among the Stars." The autographs were then hand-stitched by family members into calico stars. Among the stars were Dolly Parton, George Bush, Sandra Day O'Connor, Bob Hope, and Muhammed Ali, just to name a few. Over 100 trees sold at the hospital's raffle, raising $38,800 for the medical center. Grady said, "I saw the joy that children bring into peoples' lives. My brother's adopted daughter has brought so much happiness to our family. I wanted to do something to help children, and Children's Hospital seemed the perfect solution."

Baggage Services to relocate To old Charlotte Terminal

Effective March 1, Central Baggage Services will move from the General Office in Winston-Salem to the old Charlotte terminal in the area that was previously occupied by our ticket counters and operations. The department will gain much needed space for the office and storage area. "We will occupy approximately 3,000 sq. ft. of combined office and storage space," Allen Johnson, director of Baggage Services said, "and we will have two direct phone lines to the general office so that when a passenger calls the corporate office with baggage problems our line will ring in Charlotte."

For almost three years, Baggage Services has been working out of two locations. The inventory has been stored at the Smith Reynolds Airport terminal building and the staff has been in the GO. Since Piedmont discontinued service to INT last fall, baggage has been trucked daily to and from GSO.

"This new set up will be much more convenient and efficient, providing better customer service," Johnson said. "We will also be able to work better with our station people under the new system. Because of the many daily flights we have out of Charlotte, we can quickly return found luggage to a customer as well as travel to a station on our system out and back in the same day while providing any needed assistance to that station."

Bob Thayer, manager and Cheryl Maier, claims representative, will also relocate to the new office. In addition, the department will have two secretaries, a full-time inventory clerk, and a part-time inventory clerk.

I look forward to working on future promotions with Piedmont."
