Federal court issues USAir/IBT opinion

The federal court in Alexandria, Va., has issued its written opinion in USAir's lawsuit challenging the IBT certification. The court found that it did not have the authority to overturn the certification because of the severe limitations on judicial review of National Mediation Board decisions. The court expressly recognized that USAir acted in good faith when it postponed bargaining on a systemwide contract until the case was decided. The court also recognized that USAir is bargaining in good faith on a systemwide contract.

Adams honored by Orange County

Gene Adams, customer service manager-SNA (right) has been recognized for his outstanding customer services efforts at John Wayne Airport in Orange County, California. At a recent awards luncheon sponsored by the Orange County Aviation Council, he was presented a plaque by Orange County Supervisor Tom Riley (left).

Adams, a 27-year veteran of USAir, joined the SNA staff as CSM on February 20, 1989. USAir currently provides 25 daily jet departures and employs 76 workers there.

LAX staff hosts celebrity tournament

Last month, USAir's customer services staff at Los Angeles hosted a celebrity golf tournament at the Costa Mesa Golf Course. Celebrity player Bobby Hatfield, one of the Righteous Brothers ("You've Lost That Loving Feeling"), joined local USAir "celebrities" including Customer Service Manager Bill Wysong, Chief Pilot Greg Husar, Check Pilot Jim Owens, Passenger Service Manager Paul Leonard, and Station Secretary Kara Konda, who was responsible for organizing the tournament. The day's best score went to Paul Leonard, who won the tournament with an 84!

Scholar-Teach soon available in PACER

Scholar-Teach is a computer-based training program that is currently used by Piedmont and USAir station and reservations personnel. Effective May 15, all Scholar/Teach users registered in Piedmont's CARE system will begin accessing the same program referred to as EAGLE in USAir's PACER. The sine-in entry to access EAGLE is BSLA7777ST/ST. Each employee's name and ID will remain the same. The last day that users may access Scholar/Teach in the CARE system is May 14. Subsequently, all lessons begun in CARE must be completed by this date.

Oops! We made an error

In the April 28 USAirNews/Piedmonitor it was reported that USAir's mirror image program had received approval from the Federal Aviation Administration. The names of the FAA representatives who expressed that Piedmont's employee group was among the most professional in the airline industry are Joe Opperman, manager of the FAA Flight Standards District Office, and Jim Repucci, principal operations inspector assigned to USAir.
