CHAPLAIN'S

CORNER

"Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in Heaven."

A little girl was leaving the next day, to go to the camp for the summer. That night, as she finished her prayers, "Good-bye, God," she said, "I'm going to the country." As the departing soldier is speeded on his way to camp: "Now just forget about everything," cry those who see him off. And he often does manage to forget about everything, when his days away from home are also days away from God. Training days should be days of more or less strain, but not less restraint. The soldier should relax but not collapse spiritually. He should relax his body but not his morals while he is in training. He should not go back to the bosom of his family physically fit but spiritually devastated. He should go back, not only to hear, "How much better you look!" but to know in his heart, "How much better I am."

While in the Army, the trainee should have a good time. A good time, to be really good, must have goodness in it. A training suggestion: While you tan beneath the sun put your soul "in the pink." Treat it to a little retreat. Hike your soul to the oasis of religious service, for the spiritual exercises it needs. Put on some weight to your character, by acting among new-found friends, as one whom they can see is a friend, also of that good soldier who spent 40 days in the wilderness, conditioning himself for his work among men.

THE EDITOR'S CORNER: Many thanks for mailing me copies of your camp newspapers; they help a lot in adding spice to the H.F.N. We mail more than 1,000 copies of this sheet but to date only 577 have sent in the questionnaire that you Edgecombe boys have been asked to fill out; that fact casts doubt on whether the rest are (1) not receiving the paper or (2) have little interest in remaining on the mailing list. A greater per-cent of the Over-Seas boys have answered this request than those on this side of the "pond". Please do this now.

"Yo Editor" likes to bragg that a lot of service men come in to see him while on furlough; help him keep on bragging as he enjoys seeing you.

Write letters to the Home Front News as often as you can for your letters not only give us a lift but furnish news that all the rest of your Edgecombe friends enjoy. Let us know of any change in address. A returned HFN gives us pain
