YOU COULD NEVER BE BORED HERE

By Ann Harbison,
11th Grade, Highlands High School

In approaching Highlands you see the mountains rising majestically above the clouds, looking heavenly blue on a sunny day, bleak in a storm, or framing a night sky full of stars.

If you stay here a while you get to know the forests which cover the mountains, and the creatures that dwell in them. Then you see that Highlands is really a place for nature study, a wonderland of plant and animal life. You could never be bored here if you learn to watch the endless cycle of nature whirling around you. Highlands is a paradise of trees, shrubs, and wild flowers. As you walk through the woods you see tall pines, and hear the wind whispering through them. You see the rich blooms of the rhododendron, white, or pink, or purple. You

FAMOUS ARCHITECT AND DESIGNER CELEBRATES
BIRTHDAY AT HIGHLANDS COUNTRY CLUB

Major Henry Hornbostel, well known architect and designer of many public buildings and bridges, celebrated his 88th birthday last Monday at the Highlands Country Club where he and Mrs. Hornbostel are spending the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornbostel have a home in Melbourne Beach, Florida where they have made their residence for the past four years. The Hornbostels went to Melbourne Beach from Harwinton, Conn. and before moving to Harwinton they lived in Pittsburgh, Pa. where the Major was Professor of Architecture at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Henry Hornbostel was graduated from Columbia University in 1891. During his university career he made a name for himself on the track team as well as in his study of architecture. After graduation he went to Europe for further study at Ecole des Beaux Arts, in Paris, and travel-

1955 FLOWER SHOW

The 1955 Flower Show, sponsored by the Highlands Garden Club, was blessed by a fine, sunny day and an enthusiastic group of some 400 spectators.

It would be difficult to say which was the finest part of the show, the artistic arrangements, the horticultural specimens, the very beautiful commercial exhibits of various gift and decorating shops, or the superb displays of special exhibitors.

Mrs. Robert Reese won the coveted sweepstakes award with 81 points and numerous
