

A Message to the People of Highlands con't. his competent thoroughness of examination gave me confidence in his ability.

This little incident started me to wondering just how many people were doing the same thing I had been doing. Too many of us have grown accustomed to dependence on doctors in other towns during the past years that we fail to comprehend the tremendous advantage of having doctors of our very own near at hand. But how comforting the thought that should a child awake some night with a terrified cry of pain or some other emergency arise we are only a few minutes away from qualified medical attention.

The role of a year-round doctor in Highlands is not an easy one. A lot of us don't have much money so the fellow with a "get rich quick" idea needn't bother to unpack his bags. There will be times when his only compensation for a long trip in the middle of a stormy night may be only a grateful hand-clasp and sometimes not even that. He will have to possess a great love and tolerance of human nature 'cause we have an awful lot of it up here.

I may be wrong but I believe these two young men represent the things we want in a doctor. We want someone whose character commands our respect, whose manner doesn't convey the impression that he believes himself better than we, who knows us when he sees us whether we are in overalls or our "Sunday best", who will answer our call for help if possible when we feel it is imperative that he come, and last but not least, we want him to be a person whom we can trust, confide in and confess to.

Folks, we have these two young doctors prepared to expand their very best efforts in providing medical care for all of us. I do not believe that it is their intention to be partial to or influenced by any one group of people. They are ready to stand or fall on their own merits. With this attitude they certainly deserve the cooperation of every one of us. Let's do ourselves a good turn and put our health in their care.

Miss Sylvia Nutrizion has returned to Highlands after spending the winter in Palm Beach, Florida, and has opened her beauty salon here. This is Miss Nutrizion's eleventh year in Highlands and her shop is located over Anderson's Variety Store.
