UNION SERVICE HELD AT CLIFFSIDE

A Union Service was sponsored by the Protestant churches of Highlands last Sunday evening at Cliffside. Those attending enjoyed a picnic supper after which they held a vesper service at the amphi-theatre. The Rev. Eugene Little, pastor of the Highlands Methodist Church, delivered the message which he titled "Escape."

Mr. Brockman pianist with the Transylvania Orchestra last Thursday evening, was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Cooledge Sr., from Wednesday through Saturday afternoon.

Recent visitors of Mrs. W.S. Davis were Mrs. Emma Jallay Norton and daughter, Miss Bessie Norton, of Manchester, Ohio; Mrs. Cordelia King; Mrs. Elsie King; Mrs. Daisy Norton, of Brevard; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bolton, of Commerce, Ga.. Last week-end guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Hush Shearouse and Mrs. Lucy Bryant and children.

"INTERLUDE"

June Allyson and Rossano Brazzi star in "Interlude" which plays at the Galax Theatre August 4-5.

Almost worth the price of admission in themselves are a photographic sightseeing tour of Munich and Salzburg and the excellent symphonic musical score, recorded in Germany by the Kurt Graunke orchestra. The story brings into natural focus the many historical points of interest, and for lovers of classical music there is a treat in store in the many symphony and piano selections interspread.

Filmed in its entirety against the modern settings of Munich and Salzburg, with interiors of famous places there playing true-life roles, "Interlude" presents not only an affbeat locale, which proves generally appealing, but is coupled with an emotion-stirring love story.

Marianne Cook plays Brazzi's emotionally unstable wife with an appeal that wins audience sympathy, and Keith Andes gives his medico role a sincere, natural interpretation.

Mrs. D.G. Stewart of Atlanta, Ga., visited Mr. and Mrs. Otto Summer on Friday.

Mrs. R.L. Moore and her grand daughter, Cameron, of Lake City, Fla., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Don Watson and family.

Mrs. Mamie Lewis, of Virginia is visiting her sister, Miss Susan Rice, in Highlands.
