"THE DRUNKARD" OPENS

By - Nick Hodsdon

At 8:30 last night, the curtains of the Highlands Community Theatre parted to reveal an hour of old-fashioned melodrama, the likes of which few in the audience had ever seen. The audience caught the spirit immediately and hissed the villain, cheered the hero, and sighed at the plight of the heroine.

The noble recipients of these vocative acclamations were Greta Dear, heroine; Bill Raoul, hero; Nick Hodsdon, villain; and Jack Neel, drunkard. The supporting cast consisted of Beverly Fitzpatrick, mother; Skip Willaims, amorous old maid; Paulene Melvine, drunkard's daughter; Rebecca Johnston, noble philanthropist; and Kathy Reynolds, half-witted sister of the hero. Needless to

MUSIC FESTIVAL

Three concerts are scheduled for music lovers at Highlands on Monday, August 11 and Tuesday, August 12 when the orchestra of the Brevard Music Center will be heard at the school auditorium in Highlands.

These three concerts will constitute the initial programs of the Highlands Music Festival Association.

James Christian Pfohl, founder and director of the Brevard Music Center will conduct all three concerts. In addition to Monday and Tuesday evening concerts, there will be a Tuesday afternoon concert programmed as a youth concert. This afternoon concert tho primarily designed for young people should prove delightfully informative for all ages.

The evening concerts will begin
