15 CHILDREN TO MAKE "STAGE DEBUT" TODAY

As the morning readers of the GALAX NEWS scan this article, fifteen children will probably be nervously giggling in the "wings" of the Museum amphitheatre, most of them suffering through their first case of stage fright. And promptly at 11:30, these members of the Museum nature classes will take a deep breath, march onstage -- and the show will begin!

Katherine Bridge's Trial of the Birds will be presented by these fifteen children who have worked diligently at memorizing lines and making their own costumes, and who have given up much of their spare time to rehearse for this short, one-act play.

The cast includes: Claire Vonk as Mayor Jusice; Paul Avston as Lawyer Haynes; Barbara Mehdër as the Poet; Linda Stilwell as Mrs. Jones; Peter Paul as Little Lame Jimmy; Linda Winters as Widow Harrington; Paul Melvin as Tommy Brown; Neddie Bryson as Farmer Harrison; and Susan Ewing as the Musician.

The five younger children who take the roles of the birds are: Becky Johnston as the Redbird; Ann Woodward as the Bluejay; Jimmy Bryson as the Canary; Paul Vonk as the Mockingbird; and Kathy Walker as the Sparrow.

Malo Paul will make a brief surprise entrance at the end of the show.

ROTARY MEETING

At the weekly meeting of the Highlands Rotary Club held Tuesday night, Mr. Harold N. Cooledge, Jr., professor of Art and Architecture at Clemson College, Clemson, S.C. gave a very interesting talk on "How Business Men Affect Architecture."

The Rotarian of the week was Mr. Ellison Magruder.

There were about 40 Rotarians who attended this meeting.

Rotary meets at 7:00 P.M. on Tuesday night at Hotel Edwards. All visiting Rotarians are invited to attend.
