"BUTTERFIELD 8"

Elizabeth Taylor plays the most daring, down-to-earth and dramatically powerful role of her career in "Butterfield 8" M-G-M version of the widely-read novel by John O'Hara, which will be shown Tue-Wed, July 25-26, at the Galax Theatre.
 Also starred in the topflight cast are Laurence Harvey and Eddie Fisher, with Dina Merrill co-starred.
 It tells the story of Gloria, Miss Taylor, whose traumatic experience as a child has left a permanent scar. The attraction and tie between Gloria and Liggett, Laurence Harvey, is a stormy, emotional one—a relationship which brings both hurt and happiness to themselves and others. But through it they are able to bring out into the open the violent inner turmoil of hidden conflicts which has blighted their lives, until their story is resolved in a taut and gripping climax.
 Others in pivotal roles are Mildred Dunnock, Betty Field, Jeffrey Lynn, Kay Medford, and Susan Oliver.
 "Butterfield 8" was filmed in Cinemascope and Color entirely in New York City and its surrounding areas, with scenes shot on location in Greenwich Village, Fifth Avenue, Stony Point, Elmsford, Larchmont and Long Island.
