BUFFET CON'T
host of Lee's Inn, serve a buffet dinner that brought forth exclamations of delight but he gave to the Hudson Library one half of the dinner price paid by the 52 who made reservations, a noble gift, for he had already donated the use of the Inn for the occasion.

The second good thing of the evening was the bridge games, some playing duplicate and some contract, eight tables in all. Is there anything more exhilarating for the bridge player than a good game with evenly matched players! ? Each player made a donation to the Hudson Library.

The winning of prizes was the third good thing of the evening...prizes generously donated by the Clover Hill Surprise Shop on Cashiers Road, The Colonial Shop, Wits End and the Highlands Furniture Shop.

Mrs. Elizabeth Valentine as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee was able to turn over to the Hudson Library $150 to $160 making the fourth good thing of the evening. This committee was in charge of staging the successful event.
