"THE NUN'S STORY"

"The Nun's Story," the eagerly awaited film dramatization of Kathryn Hulme's famous book, will play Wednesday, August 9, at the Galax Theatre as one of the most important motion pictures of the decade.

The picture, a year in filming, has already been widely heralded as a memorable experience behind convent doors. It stars Audrey Hepburn in the role of Sister Luke, the Belgian girl who became a nursing nun in the Congo.

The filming company traveled 28,000 miles to two continents to bring screen life to "The Nun's Story." It was filmed in Rome, in the heart of the Belgian Congo and in various cities of Belgium. The troupe spent two months in the Congo, working among the natives and in the hospitals of Stanleyville. A leper colony sequence was filmed up the Congo River at Yalisambo in the world's most highly infected leprosy belt.

After Miss Hepburn, the cast is headed by Peter Finch, and by Dame Edith Evans and Dame Peggy Ashcroft, two distinguished members of the British theatre. For the chapel sequences, hundreds of women were chosen for the roles of nuns. Many of them were high-born ladies of royalty and at least 60 of them were members of Rome's Royal Opera Ballet, selected the eloquence and grace of their posture and movement.

Dean Jagger and Mildred Dunnock also have leading parts in "The Nun's Story," whose every role, no matter how small, is filled by a player of exceptional distinction, especially chosen for the characterization by virtue of talent and physical appearance.
