"THE LADIES MAN"

That man Jerry Lewis is back again in the Technicolor film, "The Ladies Man" playing at the Galax Theatre Tue-Wed, September 5-6. Lewis not only stars in the film, but also produced, directed and co-wrote it, with hilarious entertainment the result. He has never been funnier or more clever for he's surrounded himself with a bevy of talented beauties and guest stars who contribute great fun for the whole family.

The Paramount release co-stars former opera star Helen Traubel, introduces Broadway's Pat Stanley, and features Gloria Jean, Hope Holiday, Kathleen Freeman, Lynn Rose and guest stars George Raft, Harry James and his band, and comic Buddy Lester. The girls, a dazzling assortment of stunning blondes, brunettes, and redheads, all portray residents in an all-girl boarding house in Hollywood.

Jerry is seen as a character named Herbert H. Heever, who, because of a disappointing romance, has absolutely sworn off women forever. He takes a job as houseboy for motherly-looking Helen Wellemelon (Helen Traubel), unaware that her boarding house is exclusively female.

In the course of development there are songs, dances, and specialty show-stoppers not only by Jerry but by many of the talented new faces and figures peopling "The Ladies Man." All of it---and all of them---are great fun and highly recommended to the laugh-minded.
