BESS HINES HARKINS RETURNS

Bess Hines Harkins, who now makes her home in Oxnard, Calif., has returned to Highlands with her two daughters to spend the remainder of the summer with her mother, Mr. J. H. Hines.

The author's first book of poems, SINGING OF THE HEART, was published under her maiden name, Bess Hinson Hines. It is saturated with the beauty and majesty of mountains and waterfalls and tinged with reverent awe for all beauty of nature and spirit. Her more mature development of recent years has brought many contacts with the outside world, but always her heart has been in the highlands and her steps have turned homeward...

UNKNOWN SEAS is the most recent book of poetry by Mrs. Harkins.

Mrs. Virginia Hardie and Miss Ann Harbison will begin July 1st as teachers of the Young Adults Sunday School Class for the remainder of the summer Sundays. "We are quite fortunate in having such capable leadership for our Christian education program," said Rev. McCall, who made the announcement. The Coals, who have been coming to Highlands for over 18 years, bought the George Cleaveland home last fall, and since that time, the house has undergone major changes and a complete face-lifting. The beautiful house and grounds, named "Colonial Pines" by Mr. Coal, will be open for guests this summer, beginning July 1.

A more perfect spot with a cool, refreshing atmosphere and peaceful quietness is difficult to find so near town. "Colonial Pines" is located exactly one-half mile from the Post Office, near the
