FIFTY-FIVE FASHION STYLES IN "THE PLEASURE OF HIS COMPANY"

Hollywood's Edith Head, holder of seven "Oscars" for costume design, created an extensive feminine wardrobe for the Technicolor romantic comedy, "The Pleasure of His Company." She fashioned thirty-two ensembles for Debbie Reynolds, as a bride-to-be, and twenty-three outfits for Lilli Palmer, as the mother of the bride. Under the terms of her Paramount contract, Debbie Reynolds was able to keep the $4,000 wedding gown, one of the creations by Miss Head. She has stored it away for the future use of her daughter Carrie, now aged five. Also starring with Miss Reynolds and Miss Palmer in the motion picture are Fred Astaire as Pogo Poole, father of the bride and Miss Palmer's ex-wife, and Tab Hunter, a young cattle rancher, who is Debbie's fiance.
