"BUT WHAT DO YOU DO DOWN THERE?"

When I retired and came here to live, my Yankee family and friends had never heard of Highlands, although some of them knew the eastern part of North Carolina. They made a number of remarks which showed they had a few misapprehensions about this section, like "Your winters will be lovely, buy won't you burn up in the summer?" and "I envy you... nothing to do but play golf, swim and lie on the beach," and over and over again, "Now you'll have no excuse not to paint," for I had been studying at the Art Students League in New York and thought I was going to be another Grandma Moses.

A few of my northern relatives and friends have visited me since then, but those who have not still make the same remarks... "Well, if (CON'T TO PAGE 9)

SILVER TEA of the EPISCOPAL CHURCH AUG 19 FROM 4 to 6 p.m. CAMP HIGHLANDER

THE coming event which everyone will want to attend is the Annual Silver Tea of the Episcopal Church which will be on Sunday afternoon at lovely Camp Highlander.

Not often are visitors to Highlands given the privilege of so easily viewing from one of our very mountain tops such a breath-taking panorama of our Blue Ridge. The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wax is indeed an ideal place for this social event. It was once known as Camp Parry-dise, and paradise you will think it is, I'm sure.

You may park your car at the riding ring, if you like, and be escorted by Camp bus to the Wax home on top. Don't miss this tea which is a traditional part of summer in Highlands. It is usually at a different home each year and always at an outstandingly beautiful location.
