RAMBLING IN CAROLINA

By Eula Mae Reed

If it's a gay vacation you are seeking, all hopes will be realized in the cool green hills of North Carolina. The pattern of life in woven of simplicity and informality. From the greenest mountainside to the clearest lake, it is unsurpassed for its infinite variety of eye-filling beauty. To gain a sense of this immense beauty, one should take the luring "follow-me" kind of trail and thrill to the beautiful "back-country," not just the well-traveled roads. In the crisp, cool forest, one can fill his lungs with clean (CON'T TO PAGE 24)

DRAWING FOR GEMS SCHEDULED FOR THIS SATURDAY

This is your last chance to take a chance on three cases of precious and semi-precious stones, all cut and ready to mount. These stones all came from this part of the country and were given to the Library, by the finders, for this special benefit. Included among the stones are emeralds, rubies, star sapphires, topaz, amethysts, epidote, smoky quartz and garnets to mention a few. At four o'clock on Saturday, August 31st, at the Hudson Library, there will (CON'T TO PAGE 3)

OUR THANKS TO YOU

It hardly seems possible to us that the summer is already gone, and another season of the GALAX NEWS has drawn to a close. The time has come again to express our appreciation to all who have helped make the publication of this paper possible.

But where to begin? Our thanks go to so many people---to the advertisers who faithfully support us; to the people who send us news, or tell us where news is; to the subscribers, without whom our purpose would seem amiss; to those whose encouragement and appreciation helped us through the "rough spots"; and to all those who read, and, we hope, enjoy our paper.

Soon we will be leaving Highlands to return to college, but we will take with us a memory of another summer of the wonderful experience of working with all of you; of the times we laughed at ourselves for our "mix-ups"; our encounters with some really nice people; and a bit of sorrow at leaving, mingled with anticipation of another year at school and of our return to serve our readers and advertisers again during the summer of 1964.
