ATLANTA ARTIST PRESENTS ONE-MAN SHOW

Twenty-five paintings and ink-drawings by young Atlanta artist, John Kollock, are on exhibit in the foyer of the Highlands Community Theatre for a limited time. Kollock, a native of the mountains of north-east Georgia, has been a free-lance commercial artist in Atlanta for fourteen years. His work has been exhibited in leading galleries in north-east Georgia, with a special showing at the Piedmont Arts Festival. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia in art and drama and an alumnus of the Famous Artists School of Westport, Conn. He was awarded honorable mention in CHILDREN'S BOOK ILLUSTRATION competition set up by Famous Artists School and Golden Books. He has also done graduate work in art education at the University of Georgia.

The Board of Directors of the Highlands Community Theatre sponsored a coffee hour for Patron Members of the Theatre and their friends to permit them a preview of Mr. Kollock's exhibition. Mrs. Jack Wilcox, Mrs. Overton Chambers, Mrs. Edna Faxon and Mrs. Paula Johnson were hostesses for the occasion, and admission was by invitation only. The general public may view the exhibit, free of charge, between the hours of ten A. M. and four P. M. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 23, 24, 25. The paintings will be on exhibit during the (CON'D ON PAGE 19)

Mrs. Mae Daniel McCall Dies

Mrs. Mae Daniel McCall, 70, of Marion, North Carolina, died early Sunday morning in a hospital in Marion after a long illness.

She was a sister-in-law C. R. McCall, owner of McCall's Funeral Home in Marion.

Surviving are the husband, George S. McCall; a son, the Rev. George Daniel McCall of Highlands; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia McCall Andrews of Spartanburg, South Carolina; and four grandchildren.

Services were held Monday at two o'clock in Marion First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Carl McMurray officiated and burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery. McCall's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.
