BREVARD MUSIC CENTER BEGINS THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY SEASON

On July 6th, the Brevard Music Center begins its thirtieth anniversary season, the most brilliant and most versatile in history. Included in the celebration are world-famous artists in concert and opera, the internationally acclaimed Brevard Music Center orchestra comprised of professional musicians, three well-known operas, two hit musicals and a musical play, several pops concerts, and a newly instituted lecture series.

The Brevard Music Center will offer concerts by such famed artists as Mary Costa, Jan Peerce, Jose Iturbi, Mischa Elman, Brenda Lewis, Jean-Marie Darre, Sergiu Luca, Lee Luvisi, James Mathis, Thomas Brockman and Ernestine Smith.

Opera lovers in the area will be afforded productions of three, fully-staged operas, "La Boheme", "La Traviata", and "Don Pasquale". The ever-popular "My Fair Lady" and the smash hit "The Fantasticks" will also be presented as well as the noted play with music, "John Brown's Body". Professional singers, including Metropolitan Opera Company stars, will perform leading roles, with supporting parts being taken by young professionals or advanced students.

Opening the Festival season on July 8th, the Brevard Music Center Orchestra will present a total of eight concerts with outstanding soloists this season. Pops concerts will feature the music of Johann Strauss and Jerome Kern, and an all-American composer program. Other orchestral organizations will present weekly concerts.

New programs at the Center this year include an expanded visual arts program open to the public and featuring weekly exhibits by prominent artists. Experienced dancers will comprise the new department of dance which will participate in the Center stage productions.
