WCU'S TEACHER CORPS PROGRAM IS U. S. LARGEST

Western Carolina University has been authorized by the U. S. Office of Education to conduct the largest National Teacher Corps program in the nation under terms of the 1967 law signed Thursday by President Johnson.

The law authorized $135 million to extend life of the program for three more years.

Western Carolina was the only North Carolina institution in 1966-67 to conduct a Teacher Corps program, and drew national acclaim for the success of the venture.

Dr. Ray B. Sizemore, associate professor of education at WCU, is director of the program, conducted under the Department of Education and Psychology headed by Dr. C. D. Killian.

Dr. Sizemore said the program at WCU, starting July 17, will include authorization for 42 "interns" and 10 training supervisors, or "master" teachers. During the past school year, 26 interns were engaged at WCU in the program.

Dr. Sizemore said the U. S. Office informed him the authorization for WCU would provide for the largest number of participants at any of the colleges or universities participating in the new program this summer and fall.

The National Teacher Corps project at WCU last year sent intern teachers into a number of (CON'T ON PAGE SIXTEEN)

KING'S INN CHANGES HANDS

Mr. and Mrs. John Phelan of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. last week purchased King's Inn. The announcement was made by Mrs. Betty Trowbridge, recent manager of the inn. King's Inn has been owned by the King family since 1925 when the late Robert R. King bought it.

Mr. Phelan and his wife Gary have owned a home in Horse Cove since 1959, and have been in the hotel-restaurant business since 1937.

Mr. Phelan stated that he plans to make many changes which will include refurbishing, redecorating, and property improvement. "By next summer", Mr. Phelan said, "we hope to have an additional 35 to 40 rooms. We also will incorporate some kind of entertainment or private club".

The Phelans hope to keep the inn open much later in the year, until mid-December; or, if weather permits, opening on weekends throughout the winter.

In charge of the food operation along with Mr. and Mrs. Phelan will be H. W. (Smitty) Smith, of Boca Raton. Mr. Smith has owned several restaurants in Ft. Lauderdale and Boca Raton, and is well known throughout south Florida. He and his wife Maxine have been summer residents here for about 20 years.

The sale of King's Inn was handled by Mr. Clyde Mehder of John H. C. Perry Agency, Inc.
