BRYAN, RAOUL, EATON, SANFILIPPO CAST IN "BAREFOOT IN THE PARK"

"Barefoot in the Park" is the title of the long-run Broadway comedy hit coming to the Highlands Community Theatre on July 11th for a four-day run. "Barefoot in the Park" was so popular in New York that it attracted long lines of ticket buyers for over three years and caused people to queue up for over a year in Chicago and for comparably long periods elsewhere. In New York people were glad to get tickets as far as five months in advance. The demand put the comedy's tickets in the class with "My Fair Lady" at its height.

Kitty Bryan is leading the cast of the Neil Simon comedy at the Highlands Community Theatre, as a matron of pronounced ladylike gentility who gamely tries not to appear too startled by the whacky domestic arrangements of her newly married daughter. (CONTINUED ON p. 15)

"THE GOOD OLE DAYS RETURN"

One of the people's favorite pastimes has always been the reminiscence of the "good ole days". Children and grandchildren have always enjoyed hearing the stories of days gone by almost as much as parents and grandparents have enjoyed telling them. What could be more interesting than listening to Grandpa tell about the time he and Uncle Josh walked twenty-five miles. . . or the time old man Troy climbed to the top of... unless it would be actually reliving those good days.

Wouldn't it be great to see Highlands turned back to the days of coon skin caps and homespun, beards and long dresses, horses and wagons, corn cob pipes and lemonade, a good old fashioned square dance and the best fiddle playin' in the mountains?

Well, that's what you're gonna see on July 25th, right here in Highlands. Yep! Hillbilly Day's a comin', so get grandpa, grab you a corn-cob pipe, and start growin' that beard. (And don't forget your bonnet!)
