

ROTARY HEARS ALLEN STILL

The Highlands Rotary Club had its largest attendance of the summer with 20 visiting Rotarians and 3 guests and a good attendance of local members present.

President Bill McCall was called to Asheville for a late afternoon bank meeting and was unable to be present at the meeting. Vice-President Fred Stewart presided.

The club's youngest member, Allen Still, who was inducted in club membership last week, gave the program. Allen is an Eagle Scout and attended the 1957 National Scout Jamboree held at Valley Forge. There were 55,000 scouts and scout masters in attendance. A crowd of that magnitude living in a tent city in a small area naturally created problems of varying aspects. The problem of logistics alone was tremendous. The scouts hauled all their water for cooking, drinking, and bathing a distance of over two miles and it required 93 carloads of food per day to feed them.

The Jamboree was unique in another respect. With 55,000 youngsters in so small an area and so much activity, there were a few accidents, but not one fatality, a record for such an occasion.

The government recognized the potential danger where air travel is so heavy and had the Air Service provide multiple helicopter coverage over the area around the clock during the entire time in order to create an off-limits area to all aviation for the purpose of safety. It was estimated that if an air liner crashed in the area, the casualties could run from 1,000 to 10,000 so no chances whatsoever were taken in that respect.

Mr. Still has an excellent selection of color slides depicting the many activities of the Jamboree and he did an excellent job of narrating while showing them, which created an interesting program.

WOMEN STRIVE TO MAKE BAZAAR A SUCCESS

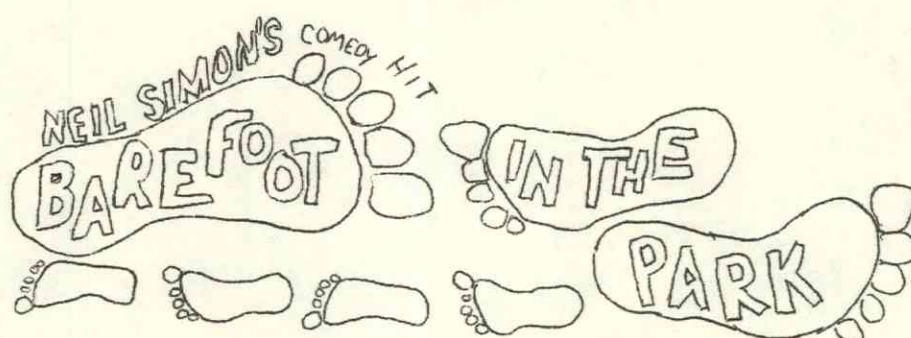

Why do our Highlands women work so hard throughout the year making articles to be sold at the annual bazaar? One very good reason -- they have pride in the Highlands-Cashiers Hospital and are convinced that it is a very important asset to our community.

Since 1953 these dedicated women have given over $30,000.00 in equipment from Bazaar proceeds. Not only this, but they have given of their time in mending linens and making new supplies. In a year's time hundreds of hours have been amassed by volunteer "Pink Ladies" and Candy-Strippers to aid and to cheer patients. This has been a rewarding experience for all.

This year we are striving to add the following equipment (CONT. ON P. 18)
