Ranger Brown said the Rosman Rescue Squad reached the scene about 3 a.m. Monday, but darkness prevented effective search.

Men from the Brevard, Highlands, Cashiers and Franklin Rescue Squads joined the search Monday, along with 15 men from the Forest Service. Personnel also arrived from the Schenck Job Corps Center.

Brown said members of the rescue squads patrolled the road and trail all night Monday, hoping the youngsters were lost in the thick bramble of laurel.

Brown said Tuesday some bloodhounds owned by Belton Taylor of Hominy arrived to assist in the search. He said the dogs went straight to the top of Rainbow Falls and one dog leaped as though to get out in the treacherous water.

An autopsy will be performed in Asheville, according to one of the investigators.

Brown was heavy with praise for Wilson, the Scuba diver. He termed him "one of the most efficient and well-qualified to be found in this area" and said the search for the boy's body could have gone on indefinitely without the assistance of Wilson. (FROM THE ASHEVILLE CITIZEN)

"BANDOLERO!"

One of three big-scale Westerns set for release, "Bandolero!" has as its most competitive assets James Stewart and Dean Martin in the roles of outlaws, and Raquel Welch for romantic interest, and George Kennedy, the Oscar-winner for "Cool Hand Luke", as sheriff. The Robert L. Jacks production also has the benefit of a tightly knit script that is built around a series of chases and violent fighting which enables director Andrew V. McLaglen to show off his talent for that sort of thing. "Bandolero!" should more than hold its own in the action houses and drive-ins in the months ahead.

The first group that the screenplay of James Lee Barrett sets into flight is a gang of bank robbers headed by Martin, all of whom have just been rescued from the hangman's noose in a Texas town by Stewart, who plays Martin's brother. As hostage on the way to the border they take along Miss Welch, a newly-widowed Mexican beauty whose husband left her a fortune. In hot pursuit come sheriff Kennedy, who has long pined for Miss Welch from afar and his posse. Soon stalking both groups is a band of murderous Mexican cut-throats. All three contingents come together at the climax for a long and bloody shoot-up which leaves practically the whole cast dead, including Stewart and Martin. Only Miss Welch and Kennedy survive to bury the corpses.

The film plays Sept. 5th and 6th at the GALAX THEATRE.
