"THE NIGHT I WAS SAVED"

-- BUD THOMPSON

Rain, rain, rain. Seemed it had been raining for weeks. Being a 7th grader, I was too busy with roller skates, bicycles and fishing poles to realize how long it really had rained. My bicycle had to have new spokes, new bearings, a new paint job and a new siren. All of this took me a week each day after school. I took up roller skating to fill the time while the rain was falling outside.

I'd get Aunt Helen Wilson (as every boy knew her) on the phone and after I hinted that my roller skates were in good order she'd say, "Well, why in the sam hill don't you come to the barn and skate during this seige of rain? But before you do, let me speak to your mother." So I'd put Ma on the phone and she'd say, "Why, Helen, Buddy said he got all his lessons during study period."

So while they were decidin', I'd put my raincoat on and my roller skates over my shoulder and take off toward the barn just a-whistlin'. I'd get on the front porch at Aunt Helen's and I'd hear her say on the phone, "Well, you let him come on. This inside skating will keep him off the creek banks. I know how he and Barak love to fish, no matter what the weather."

Anyway, I got home that night about seven and Mama had saved me some black-eyed peas and pork chops. I didn't even take time to dry, I was so hungry. My knee was sore, but I managed to get to the table without anybody noticing me limping. (CON'T ON P. 18)

JUNIORS AND SENIORS INVITED TO "SEE HOW THEY RUN"

The Highlands Community Theatre has extended an invitation to all juniors and seniors at Highlands School to attend a performance of "See How They Run" as guests of the company. Complimentary tickets may be used by the juniors and seniors for guest admission when presented at the theatre box-office.

Director Michael Hall reports that his company would like to establish close contact with all students in the Highlands area so that they may participate in summer theatre activities next season.

NOTICES

There will be a Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday, September 3rd, 7:30 p.m. in the Town Conference Room.

The Post Office will be closed Labor Day, September 1st.
