FOREST SERVICE PLANS EXPLAINED Cont from page 5

In the long range planning it is estimated that some 2,000 additional picnic and camping units will be provided to accommodate the expected travellers who will use the Blue Ridge Parkway when completed some time in the future.

The subject of timber cutting was discussed at great length and many questions were answered. There are two methods known as clear cutting and selective cutting. Advantages of the clear cutting method, which many ecologists have objected to, are that it is more economical, and that better trees can be planted to replace those removed. The main objection seems to be that the area cut over looks bad for a number of years until the new trees grow to a certain height. The areas proposed for this type of treatment are limited in size to 50 acres and a space of at least one mile must separate clear cut locations. A total of 150 acres to be clear cut is presently programmed, less than one half of one percent of the so called General Forest Zone.

Also planned is creation of additional recreation areas to use 300 acres during the next five years. Planned project costs in the Highlands area total some $87,800 including trail and road maintenance.

It was announced that the Highlands Club stood 3rd in the District in the attendance contest for July with 92.75% If only two members who missed meetings had made up at a neighboring Club we would have been in first place again.

District Governor David LeFar of Gastonia will make his official visit to the Highlands Club next Tuesday. The Club Assembly, which all local Rotarians are expected to attend, will be at the Methodist Church Tuesday morning starting at 8:00 A.M. At last year's assemble 100% of the local members were in attendance for all or part of the session. Committee reports will be presented at that time.

If we pause to think, we will have cause to thank -----
