"R.P.M.*"

"R.P.M.*", Columbia picture starring Anthony Quinn, Ann-Margret and Gary Lockwood, is the story of a middle age college president who had been a fighter against oppression all his life, the co-ed who is his mistress, and a student leader whose militancy can ruin his own life.

If there is such a thing as a "perfect Quinn role," after his years of successful stage and screen portraiture then that probably is the best way to define Anthony Quinn's performance in the Stanley Kramer production of "R.P.M.*".

As the co-ed mistress of the president of her university, Ann-Margret plays a semi-nude scene. The phrase is "semi-nude" because Ann-Margret wears a see-through dress in it. The scene itself is an integral part of the film, which is concerned with a campus crisis. The see-through dress helps to show Quinn's character, not Ann-Margret's curves.

"R.P.M.*" plays Thursday August 19 at the Galax Theatre.
