

Ha! Ha! DO NOT FORSAKE ME

"Oh, Dear!" sighed the husband as he wrestled with his income tax. "If we'd only saved something during the depression so we could meet our expenses during these lush times."

Ray: My cousin has entered a promising career.
Jack: Really? What's he doing?
Ray: Writing political speeches.

A no-account husband joining the other loafers on the curb of the court house square, announced that he was leaving town. "I just can't live here any longer," he said.

"What's the matter?" asked one. "Oh, the town's all right," he said, "but it just isn't any place where a woman can find work."

Father: How many miles to the gallon?
Mother: What is the color of the upholstery?
Son: How fast will she go?
Daughter: Has it a cigarette lighter?

Neighbors: How can they afford it? Charles was having trouble with his grammar. One day when he came from school he said, "I see how it is now. Hens set and lay, but people sit and lie."

Three turtles decided to have a cup of coffee. Just as they went into the cafe, it started to rain; so the biggest turtle said to the smaller turtle, "Go home and get the umbrella." So the little one said: "I will if you don't drink my coffee." "We won't," promised the other two.

Two years later the big turtle said to the middle turtle: "Well, I guess he isn't coming back; we might as well drink his coffee." Just then a little voice called from just outside the door: "If you do I won't go."

The young bride noticed that her husband was depressed. "George, dearest," she whispered, "I know that something is bothering you. I want you to tell me what it is. Your worries are not your worries—they are our worries."

"Oh, very well," George said. "We have just had a letter from a

Do not forsake me, oh my mem'ry.

On this examination day.
Do not forsake me, needed answers.

Wait, wait and stay.
I do not know what quizzers wait me.

I only know I don't know much
And I must face those (censored) questions.

For I'm a scholar
And I must foller
In the wake of the wise ole owl.

I don't know my science or philosophy.
I don't know where to put that old apostrophe.

I only prophesy near catastrophe.
Dear Juan in Hell?

Well, meet Don Jaun!
Do not forsake me, o you babies

That come from somewhere 'twixt the ears.
And don't you gimme no mights and maybes.

Come to my rescue, oh I beseech you,
And I'll not drop tears in my beers.

Inabinett Goes To Chicago University

"Have a good time" went out last month to Mr. Thomas P. Inabinett, North Carolina Director of Religious Education and former members of the ACC faculty who has gone to the University of Chicago to continue his studies.

Since Mr. Inabinett has to be out of the state for three months an assistant director has been appointed. He is William E. (Billy) Tucker. Billy will serve in the downtown office of Mr. Inabinett on part-time basis until the first of April.

Others who are helping with the state work are Vivian Muns and the executive officers of the North Carolina Commission.

girl in Detroit, and she is suing us for breach of promise."

Fred: Come in and tell me what you think of my new loud-speaker.

Jack: I should love to, old man, but I promised faithfully to meet mine at 7:00 sharp.

Music Notes

By RICHARD ZIGLAR

The members of the mixed chorus gladly welcome into their group Barbara Jean Rice, Rebekah Robbins, Barbara Hutchins, Jean Phillips, Peggy Winstead, Thelma White, Vera Weathersby, Peggy Ward, Robert Moore, Warren Mallard, Ralph Kennedy, William Pierce, Darrell Huffman, and Buddy Cunningham. Even with losses among the ranks (some conflicts in the new rehearsal hour) the chorus membership has increased over last semester.

The singers hope that with the aid of Professor Lynn Brown (and the new eleven o'clock practice hour) they will be able to produce "new qualities of sound and performance that one would expect from a group that practices at a reasonable morning hour instead of a weary late afternoon hour."

Anything new can make people happy or unhappy. There were a few of the former on January 21, when there was held the year's first "private recital" of students who took private music lessons during the first semester.

But we must confess that there are also reports that the debut made quite a few students uncomfortable and nervous. Yet, there has to be a first time for everything, students, and next time you perform the feeling won't be half so bad—and we hope that some of your performances can actually stay as good as they were in January.

Among the performers were Paul Crouch, with a Spanish song, and Peggy Nicholls, with a song by Brahms. Marjorie Blinson played a Bach piece on the piano. James Hemby played an old English Drinking Song.

Two wind players were L. J. Benton, Jr., who played the clarinet, and Carol Stone, trumpeter. Thelma White sang Reger's "Virgin's Slumber Song." Delano O'Neil sang Schubert's "Hark, Hark, the Lark."

Other singers were Libby Rump, Peggy Martin, Irene Glover, Annie Rackley, and Eleanor Hattell.

Also playing the piano were Pauline Stephenson, Annie Rackley, Joyce Strickhauser, and Peggy Winstead.

Soloists on the new chapel pipe organ were Buddy Cunningham and Peggy Martin.

DATE OR STAG

Date or stag! It was fun! It did not lag, and none were shunned! Just ask anyone who went to the Sock Hop Dance. It was held in the gym on Saturday, January 24, from 8:00-11:45.

As each one came in, his or her were checked at the door, leaving everybody to dance in their socks.

The "Belle of the Ball" was Miss Sarah Bain Ward with her hair down, wearing ACC socks and a big shirt.

Music was furnished by David Batts' band.

Delta Sigma's Carol Ann Lee is top scorer in volleyball this season. She gathered 99 points in 8 games for an average of over 12.4. Next in line are Faye Dail with 70 and Nan Mattox and Peggy Nicholls each with 62. These three girls played for Phi Sigma Tau. Fifth is Ruby Wiggins from the Vagabonds with 58. Freshman Evelyn Yionoulis scored 54 for the Coons. Nice work, girls!
