Campus Awaits Dorsey's Band And Big Dance

The final preparations are being made, and the stage is being set for what promises to be the biggest social event of the year at Atlantic Christian College; the dance at the Wilson Community Center Thursday night featuring the Tommy Dorsey band.

The dance is being co-sponsored by the Executive Board of the ACC Cooperative Association and the ACC Interfraternity Council. The Executive Board is managing the financial arrangements for the affair, and the IFC is carrying out all other preparations.

First In Center

This social event is the first such affair to be held on the basketball court of the Wilson Community Center on Raleigh Road.

Sammy White, IFC president, has asked that the members of the student body and faculty of the college who attend the dance show proper gratitude for this privilege of using the basketball court by not wearing shoes which might damage the floor. "Shoes with taps or steel heels might do serious damage to the floor, and we hope that our students will not wear them if they can possibly

Faculty To Be Given Courtesy Admissions

By TERRILL RILEY

Members of the Executive Board of the Cooperative Association met Monday evening for their regular weekly meeting to supervise the governmental affairs of both the student body and the faculty.

Robert Dunn, president of the Executive Board, introduced to the campus governing body Elton D. Winstead, senior at the college, who attended the business session in order to express his personal sentiments concerning previous action on the arrangements of the Cooperative Association-Inter Fraternity Council dance.

Mr. Winstead said that the stipulation for members of the faculty and administration to purchase $1.00 tickets in order to attend the dance featuring the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra appeared to him to be most "discourteous." He emphasized to the board that there was no need in the association's emergency fund for the very small amount of money which would be made by such a stipulation to the faculty and administrative staff.

"Indirectly," Winstead pointed out, "it appears to be a polite way of saying that these people are not welcome."

Places A Barrier

Winstead further stated that such an action places a barrier between the relationship of the student to the faculty; he said that this was directly contradictory to the philosophy of Atlantic Christian's "campus family" relationship. Winstead completed his opinion on the matter in saying that some provision should be made, such as a combined student-faculty activities card, so that faculty and administrative members of the college "family" could attend campus activities under the same conditions as the students.

Everette Bryant, Vice president of the Cooperative Association, asked for a repeal of the arrangement requiring members of the faculty and administrative staffs to purchase tickets for the coming Tommy Dorsey Orchestra dance. The arrangement had been made by the board in one of its previous weekly meetings; the reasoning was that the faculty and administration do not pay an activities fee of $31.00 which every student pays. Members of the Executive Board voted to repeal the stipulation. The chairman indicated that a special invitation would be made to the faculty and administration to attend the dance without the cost of admission. They will be the guests of the student body.

Joint Press Meetings Will Be Held At ACC

Student editors of the nine newspapers published at the colleges forming the North State Conference will have a unique opportunity to discuss their problems with professional newspaper officials here on the weekend of December 4, 5, and 6.

Dale Freeman of Appalachian State Teachers College, President of the North State Conference Press Association, announced today that his organization will hold its fall meeting on the Atlantic Christian College campus that weekend. At the same time Richard B. Wynne of the Asheville Citizen, President of the North Carolina Associated Press News Council, announced that the council will hold its fall meeting at the college on the same weekend.

"We feel that a joint meeting of this type can serve many useful purposes," Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, ACC President, said, as he discussed the two gatherings. "It will give the student editors and staff members an opportunity to learn from their professional contemporaries. It will provide the professional newspaper leaders with an opportunity to get to know some of the young men and women who will help staff their newsrooms and advertising offices in

CCA To Sponsor Contest For Thanksgiving Essay

The Campus Christian Association of Atlantic Christian College is sponsoring an essay contest for all students on the ACC campus. A prize will be presented by the CCA to the student that submits the best essay on the subject, "A Student Views Thanksgiving."

The deadline for the contest will be November 18. The essays will be judged by the faculty of the Department of English.

The purpose of the contest is to gather material for the Thanksgiving booklet that the CCA is preparing for the members of the CCA. This booklet will be distributed to the student body of the college before the Thanksgiving holidays. The book will contain material selected to aid the student in his appreciation of the Thanksgiving season.

The CCA urged all students to participate in this contest. Jim Boswell, president of the CCA, said, "We hope that many students will take advantage of this opportunity to express themselves on this subject. The contest is being sponsored by the CCA in order that students might focus their attention more on the meaning of Thanksgiving."

Boswell also said that entries in the contest may be submitted to the English Department.

The winning essay will be included in the Thanksgiving booklet.

Social Science Students Featured On TV Today

The Department of Social Science at Atlantic Christian College will present this afternoon the second in the current series of television programs being aired by the college.

The program can be viewed on Television Station WITN, Washington, channel seven.

Subject of this afternoon's program, which can be seen at 1:30 p.m., is the amount of taxes average families have to pay in North Carolina.

Appearing on the program will be David Smith, Mrs. Susan Caudle Redfearn, James Van Camp, and Everette Bryant, students in the Department of Social Science at ACC.

The program was prepared by Dr. William F. Troutman, Jr., member of the faculty in the department, with the help of the Division of Special Activities. Its purpose is to feature the new political science area which the department opened this semester with the announcement of a major in that field.

Next week the alumni office at the college will be featured on the series. This program may be seen at 1:30 p.m. on channel seven, also. It will spotlight the contestants in the Homecoming Queen's contest at the college, it was announced by James D. Daniell, Director of Alumni Affairs at the college.

Also included in the script for the program is the schedule of Homecoming events and a short discussion concerning them.

Last Friday, the Department of Music at the college presented the first program in the series. It featured a group of 16 members of the ACC chorus. Soloists on the program were Miss Nancy Forbes and Miss Polly Glover. The Journeymen, ACC quartet, also appeared on the program that was presided over by James V. Cobb, Jr., of the ACC faculty. Miss Louise Wells was the accompanist.

Semi-Formal Attire Set By IFC For Big Dance

By RALPH MESSICK
Collegiate Co-Editor

Final plans for the Tommy Dorsey Dance being held in the Wilson Recreation Center were made by the Interfraternity Council of Atlantic Christian College at its meeting Tuesday night.

The IFC reaffirmed the notice concerning the attire for the dance at the meeting. This notice is to the effect that the attire will be semi-formal — men wearing suits and women wearing party or cocktail dresses.

In further business, members of the ticket committee said that they were planning to sell tickets for the dance to night students Monday and Tuesday night in the Classroom Building. These tickets will be sold for $1 each to night students only. The ticket will admit the student and his or her date to the dance.

A motion was made by Miss Peggy Green at the meeting that no outsiders or spectators be admitted to the dance. This motion was passed unanimously.

Bobby Dunn, president of the Cooperative Association, attended the meeting and urged the fraternity and sorority delegates present to entreat their respective brothers and sisters to uphold the dignity of the college at the dance. Dunn said that this was the first function of its kind to be held in the Recreation Center. Future opportunities for Atlantic Christian College to use the center depend largely upon the result of this trial effort.

Sammy White, president of the IFC, reiterated the remarks made by Dunn. He added, "Students that attend the dance have a responsibility to the college to care for the Recreation Center."

White also said that no students will be admitted to the Dance without Athletic Association Cards or tickets. There will be no ex-
