Filth In Bohunk Discussed At Executive Board Meet

The Executive Board of the Co-operative Association held its regular meeting Monday night in room 212 of the Classroom building. Many important campus issues were discussed ranging from NSA to WAGR. June Abbott, representing the Bohunk Committee, gave a report to the board pertaining to the filth in the Bohunk. Miss Abbott stated that much discussion had taken place among various campus groups in trying to find a solution to the pressing problem. Among the solutions offered were keeping a full-time maid in the Bohunk, starting a clean-up campaign, putting more ash trays around, and the last solution — to be used if the rest fail — to take the TV, record player, and bridge tables out and lock them up.

Jerry Ashworth, vice president of the Co-op, reported to the board information he had received in regard to WAGR. Mr. Ashworth commented that if the radio station were to resume operations with the present set-up, it would be operating illegally according to the Federal Communication Commission regulation pertaining to college stations. President Belanger asked Mr. Ashworth to investigate the matter further and to report next week.

Gina Allen and Linda Griffin reported to the board results of the National Student Association meeting in Raleigh that was attended by several Atlantic Christian students. Robert Royall, NSA co-ordinator, commented that a great deal of important student-related issues had been voted upon by the NSA, the main one being the "Gag Law." Mr. Royall commended the ACC

Christmas Gift Project Planned

The Women's Dormitory Association is sponsoring a campus-wide project of buying Christmas gifts for underprivileged children in Wilson. Each person on campus will be given the opportunity to sign up for a boy or girl between the ages of 5 and 11. A booth will be set up in the classroom building Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 2 and 3 for this purpose. It is requested that each person spend between $1.00 and $1.25 on these gifts and take them to Harper Hall by Monday, December 9.

There are many activities which will be coming up before the Christmas holidays. Among them is the night set aside for caroling and the big party given by the Men's Dormitory in Hackney Hall after the caroling. This will take place December 19.

Gag Law, Central Topic Of NSA Regional Meet

96 student delegates met here to discuss "Community Issues and how they Affect Higher Education" on Nov. 15 and 16. The meeting was the 15th Fall Assembly of the Carolinas-Virginia Region of the U. S. National Student Association.

A resolution opposing the N. C. speaker ban law was passed after lengthy debate on the strongness of the wording. Article I "deplores the legislative irresponsibility which accompanied the passage" of the speaker ban.

In a keynote address, Joel Sharky, a national officer of USNSA, told the delegates that many outside groups have an undue influence on the policies of public and private education. He criticized organizations that "attempt to push a political philosophy into the curricular and extra-curricular activities of a campus."

An international commission was established for the Region which will have projects in student travel abroad, foreign student programming, and Latin American student affairs.

Complaints about the high costs of text books resulted in a resolution establishing a book co-op commission which will seek to bring an outlet of the USNSA Book Co-op to this region.

Student physical and mental health was the subject of a resolution aimed at improving college infirmary services. It called for the availability of psychiatric advice for students who seek it.

The delegates rejected a resolution opposing "The Civil Rights Bill of 1963." The resolution, introduced by two UNC students, congratulated Sen. Sam Ervin (D-NC) for his efforts against the bill.

Thoms Covington, assistant dean of student affairs at N. C. State, which hosted the meeting, spoke to the students in a workshop on "Outside Pressures on Higher Education." He pointed out that in most cases, the ultimate responsibility for student conduct was legally on the college administrator.

He said, however, that he favored giving students a big hand in dealing with affairs that were of concern to them.

The speaker ban was discussed by a panel of five students. They agreed that "the state has the 'right' to regulate the policies of its educational institutions." However, disagreement followed on the "wisdom" of passing certain regulations.

Armistead Maupin, UNC sophomore, said that he did not want to see the state "provide a free forum for communist speakers." A Charlotte College junior, Malichi Greene, disputed this, and said that it was the responsibility of the college to provide all ideologies an opportunity to be presented.

In closing the assembly, Regional Chairman Harry DeLung, praised the students at N. C. State "for their excellent job in hosting the regional meeting." He said the meeting had provided the regional officers with a wide variety of projects to work on during the coming year.

Etheridge Speaks At Science Meet

The Science and Mathematics Club of Atlantic Christian College met Monday night in the lecture room of the Moye Science Hall.

President Julius Wooten presided over a short business meeting which involved a discussion of future meetings and membership plans. The speaker for the evening was Dr. Richard Etheridge, a local optometrist, who spoke on the "Physics and Psychology of Vision." Dr. Etheridge discussed astigmatism, myopia, hyperopia, and correction procedures. An informal discussion period followed the presentation.

Plans were discussed for a December social. The president announced that on Jan. 8 the speaker will be Dr. G. R. Hammond and he will discuss mouth to mouth resuscitation.

great Borises since Ezio Pinza. Born in Los Angeles, Sullivan was a high school athlete and did not begin to think of serious voice study until his last years of high school. A student production of "The Pirates of Penzance" convinced him that he wanted singing as a career. At 21, he made his professional debut as Count Almaviva in an English production of "The Barber of Seville."
