Resignation of the chairman of the Board of Trustees, approval of plans for three new campus buildings and formal approval of a $1,237,649.59 operating budget, highlighted the annual fall meeting of the Atlantic Christian College Board of Trustees held here recently.

Thomas J. Hackney, Sr., well-known Wilson industrialist, tendered his resignation as chairman of the Board of Trustees, a post he has held continuously for 28 years. He joined the board in 1932 and was named chairman in 1936.

While chairman, he guided the institution through some of its darkest hours and has played a key role in the school's continuing program of growth. He served the college through four administrations. During his tenure 11 new campus structures were built, the latest being the institution's new Music Building.

Mr. Hackney instructed Charles Rouse of Raleigh, chairman of the board's Nominating Committee, to have his group submit its nominations for a successor to his post at the board's February 1965 meeting for the board's action.

Commenting on Mr. Hackney's resignation, Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of the college said, "Mr. Hackney's long and distinguished tenure as chairman of the Board of Trustees of ACC has seldom been matched, either in years of service or in the superior quality of his leadership. His enthusiasm, his abounding generosity, his wise counsel and his untiring work in behalf of the college can serve as a model to all who serve in the work of higher education. We are very pleased that he will continue his service as a member of the Board of Trustees."

The board gave approval to plans for three new campus structures: a new women's dormitory, a new physical education plant, and a new art building.

The new five-story women's dormitory will contain some 30,000 feet of space and will house some 144 students and will include an apartment for a resident counselor.

The new physical education plant will contain some 30,000 square feet of space and will include a gymnasium with a seating for 1500 people plus locker rooms for men and women, classrooms and faculty of Yates Miller, freshmen president, reported on the Cafeteria Committee. He said that the committee had suggested a number of ways to stop the cutting in line, and that a survey on this matter will be conducted soon.

Lee Horne, president, reported on a letter received from Dr. Wenger stating that in response to the Board's inquiry the Administrative Council had hired an additional man to take care of extra grounds work and to raise and lower the flag. Horne also announced that the Fall Regional Meeting of NSA will be held at Duke University on Dec. 4-5.

Food Study Is Released

Almost a year ago a committee was appointed to make a study of the food service at Atlantic Christian. Chairman of the committee was William Paulsell. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ruby Shackelford, Robert Bennett, Milton Adams, Mrs. Irene Gray, Miss Eloise Reel, Maurice Belanger, and Sammy Jones. The procedure established was to allow the students to explain all complaints about food service, then allow the administration to respond to the complaints, and then the entire committee was to propose recommendations.

Adams and Mrs. Gray explained the budgetary and equipment problems involved in these problems. Adams explained that the food charge was as low as it could be for the cafeteria to break even. Mrs. Gray explained that the cafeteria does not have the necessary holding equipment for keeping food warm. Everyone on the committee agreed that the basic problem was

Education Week Nov. 8-13

The local chapter of SNEA and interested citizens across the nation are observing November 8-13 as American Education Week. This year marks the forty-third such event which was begun in 1921 by the National Education Association and the American Legion. The purpose of this observance is to inform the general citizenry about the public school program and the important issues in education. During this week the public is invited to visit the schools, meet the teachers, and see firsthand what is happening.

This year the theme of American Education Week is: "Education Pays Dividends." These dividends are manifested in different areas: Human Relations, Earning Power, Personal Fulfillment, Good Citizenship, National Economic Growth, Better Communities, and International Relations. Each day during the week, one of these areas is emphasized.

It is hoped that by making Americans aware of the successes and failures of the present program, they will be encouraged to take active parts in improving the nation's educational opportunities.

As teachers of tomorrow, the members of SNEA have a great personal responsibility toward meeting the educational needs of America's youth. However, not educators alone, but all Americans should feel this responsibility.

The next meeting of SNEA will be November 19, at 4 o'clock in the Music Building. Pictures for the annual will be taken at this time. Dress will be heels for ladies, and suits for men. All members are urged to be present. Members are also asked by the executive officers to support the Books for Asian Students Drive being sponsored by the Campus Awareness Committee.
