Apathy Is Dead

During recent years student apathy has been the chief prohibitive force on the Atlantic Christian campus. Because students have been apathetic, many social regulations have remained unchanged, the SGA has been virtually powerless, and campus life in general has been a bore.

But alas, a type of Renaissance is taking place now amongst Greeks and non-Greeks, seniors and freshmen, faculty and students, straights and freaks, smokers and non-smokers; everyone is getting it together and the unity which has resulted will be more powerful and effective in attaining change than any editorial or SGA resolution.

In the past week over one thousand students have attended meetings in which they voiced their feelings regarding the campus social situation. The Student Life committee acted favorably on several key issues, but the bulk of action now needed must come from the Administrative Council and the Board of Trustees.

The Renaissance has also extended into the political arena. All types of ACC students have involved themselves in various state and national campaigns and it is estimated that quite a large number of ACC students have registered to vote since receiving the franchise. The change in political awareness is more obvious when one realizes that five or six years ago a well-known U.S. senator was on campus and only about 30 students turned out to hear him. Last week over 400 students spent their Thursday lunch hour listening and questioning a dark horse presidential candidate.

Yes, I think student apathy at ACC is dead and I'm certain that few of us will mourn its passing.

Potpourri

—Saturday, May 6 is primary day in N.C. and I hope all registered students and faculty will take time to vote.

—It would be a big help I think, if the faculty at their May meeting would pass a resolution supporting some, if not all the student grievances now being considered by the Administrative Council and Trustees.

—The outdoor concert Tuesday night was really great. I hope there can be more like it next year.

—Terry Sanford told several people last Thursday that he was really impressed with the beauty of our campus and the maturity of those students who asked him questions.

Guest Opinion

By PHIL HARDY

The students of ACC have finally decided to stand up for their rights. The fever of change is spreading throughout the campus and everyone is now waiting patiently. The students voiced their opinions at two separate meetings and they are now ready for action.

Many thanks should go to the Student Life Committee for the super job they did. The Administrative Council met and their decisions are very important.

If the Administrative Council should pass all of these grievances, then we would have to wait for the Trustees to meet. This meeting will be held graduation day — a lot of good that will do the students for they will not know the outcome of the vote. With the meeting on this date, the Trustees could very well vote down all of our grievances and the fever of change will be controlled until next year — same time, same station.

Some action should be taken to have the Trustees meet before this date. If an emergency meeting would be called, then the vote could be tabulated and we would have a better chance of getting something done.

New Wine

After a brief absence for a quick journey to see former butcher turned ding-bat barber the New Wino is back. I wouldn't stoop to the journalistic lows of naming anyone by their Christian nomenclature, but religion major Bud Parish will cut some of your follicles if you happen to even wander close to his barber chair. It's a good thing Bud is going into the ministry, he certainly couldn't support his wife long as a barber after the word got out as to his tonsorial skills. It's rumored he used to work in the Meat Dept. of the A & P and we all know what he did.

The most newsworthy item last week on campus was the rable that accosted the Student Life Committee last Wednesday evening. It was quite a gathering. The discussion ran the gambit from the seriousness of the hours ACC women should be able to keep or not keep to the matter of the nakedness of our feet. Some brother of the Sigma Pi said he was disturbed because he wanted to feel the $22,000 worth of carpet in the classroom building with his feet. Even Dean Ward had to chortle at that remark. The Student Life heard our gripes whether they were absurd or serious. Most of what was said was bordering on responsible, but when students call for equal rights for women at ACC as guaranteed by the Constitution of these United States, well, I mean there are limits this fine Christian institution can go to. After all who is the school here to serve, the students, or our parents or the administration! Pray tell, why should we trust people old enough to vote. The Congress of the U. S. isn't really that responsible a body. All they do is have a high old time with the tax payer's money and try to keep up with Henry Kissenger. What do Viet Nam veterans know about shaping their own discipline rules?

I must congratulate the Committee on the points they have already acted on and approved. It's about time the people who set policy respond to student's desires. The wine vat spills the best salute to that sort of effort.

I for one have been wondering what sort of organization a certain religion professor has perpetrated on certain afternoons in the hallowed Halls of Hines.

I personally have heard from a reliable second hand source that there has been chanting, praying, and all grades of magic such as the calling back of dead spirits, especially of some dude named Jesus Christ. These strange happenings must be investigated and I call on all students to prepare for their investigation by finding more out about this character from Israel. If you should personally encounter him proceed with extreme caution because he has been known to change the attitudes of many, many.

Until the last issue of this scandal sheet hits the Hamlin Center for bridge and table tennis studies this is Bob Johnson and the New Wine hoping you will keep on keeping on for the alive and well Jesus Christ Superstar!

PTL!

Letter

I was very peeved when I left the "IF" concert last Monday night. Sure, they were just as peeved at the students who were there or the majority who were not. But if they are the fine performers Temple claims them to be, they would have given a better concert.

As a performer myself, I know what it is like to work long hours, striving for perfection on stage, only to see how apathetic ACC students are when it comes to supporting our plays. But the students who do come and the others who come and even pay to see our plays want to see a good performance. And the cast does their best, no matter how small the audience is, because the ones that do come are sincerely interested.

"HERO" the back up group are not as well-known and maybe that's why they did their best, but the fact is, they did put on a good concert and gave it all they had as they should have, for those of us who went to hear them.

So why should the musicians of "IF" cheat us, the ones who took time and paid money to see a good performance?! They were paid and I am very insulted that they felt it their liberty to perform for a limited time and do their evidently "not greatest" works.

Is this what good performers are?!!

German April Feast

By RAY GRIFFIN

Last Thursday evening the Adler Deutsch Club held its last meeting of the year at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Schatz. The meeting was a bit out of the ordinary. In the spirit of Spring the members of the club threw a spring picnic in the mood of an Oktober Fest — well almost.

Among honored guests attending the meeting were Dr. and Mrs. Wenger, Mrs. Shakelford, and Mrs. Latham. Also three of Atlantic Christian's foreign students added a truly international flare to the evening. They were Francisco Matamoros, Maffeo Sin, and Howard Tang.

And so with a lot of German, a flare of Spanish, and a touch of Oriental the evening was on. While eating Louis Duprie's hamburgers and hotdogs casual conversation evolved between the club members and the guests.

As the evening wore on contemporary German songs such as "Wind in der Nacht" and "Trink, Trink" were sung. Later that night the main area of interest was Astrology and Palm Reading. Mrs. Latham and Mrs. Schatz, both being proficient in that field, seemed to be in competition with each other as people switched from one to the other trying to get a longer lease on life.

But the highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Errenurkunde Award to Mike Raper and Alice Wyndham for their outstanding performance in German I.

Also the new officers for 1972-73 were installed. They are Mike Raper, President; Robert Cayton, Vice President; and Vi Andrews, Secretary-Treasurer. The outgoing officers are Ray Griffin, President; Mike Crew, Vice President; and Terry Rogerson, Secretary-Treasurer.

All in all, the evening was undoubtedly one of the most successful that the club has yet experienced. We would again like to thank our guests for coming, and we hope that they will come again next year. As a closing remark, it can perhaps be said of Der Adler Deutsch Club that "Wir geben uns mehr Muhe."

Hoover Dead At Age 77

J. Edgar Hoover, who has been director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for 48 years, died at his home in Washington, D. C. Monday night. Hoover, who was 77 years old, has served as FBI director for the past eight U. S. presidents.

Art Exhibits

The Atlantic Christian College Student Art Exhibition opened in the gallery of Case Art Building on May 1.

The annual event includes art work produced in studio art classes throughout the past academic year. Some of the work is highly experimental while the remainder is relatively traditional.

The exhibition includes work in painting, sculpture, ceramics, drawing, graphics and commercial design. The work is from art majors and non-majors from the freshman through senior levels.

The show will close on May 22. The gallery is open to the public free of charge. Gallery hours are: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday, 12 p.m.-5 p.m.; and Tuesday, 7 p.m.-9 p.m.
