ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN COLLEGE NUMBER TWENTY

Stringfellow at AC

William Stringfellow is an author, social critic, attorney, and theologian. His current book, "An Ethic For Christians and Other Aliens In A Strange Land," is being widely acclaimed both in America and abroad for its original use of the Revelation to John in comprehending demonic reality in a nation.

His pioneering effort as a white lawyer in East Harlem, more than a decade before the "war on poverty," is related in his best seller "My People Is The Enemy," while his more recent autobiographical work "A Second Birthday" concerns Stringfellow's prolonged, urgent struggle against profound illness and pain and has been called the work of an "American C. S. Lewis."

His friendship with Fr. Daniel Berrigan, famed Jesuit poet, brought national attention to Dr. Stringfellow when he was indicted, along with poet Anthony Towne, for allegedly harboring the priest when he was a fugitive. Towne and Stringfellow wrote "Suspect Tenderness" about that experience and after their indictment was dismissed, Stringfellow joined as a defense counsel in the so-called Harrisburg case.

Stringfellow has had other controversial cases, including his defense of Bishop James A. Pike against heresy charges. He is present counsel to the bishops who ordained women to the Episcopal priesthood in Philadelphia.

"Time" has named Stringfellow "one of Christianity's most persuasive critics from within" and the "Nation" has said: "Stringfellow is no liberal. He is a radically relevant Christian — an extremely rare species." Karl Barth called Stringfellow "the most conscientious and thoughtful" mind he encountered during his American visit.

A Guggenheim Fellow, and the recipient of several honorary degrees, Dr. Stringfellow is a graduate of the Harvard Law School, the London School of Economics, and Bates College. His military service won three commendations.

He is a contributing editor to "Christianity and Crisis," "The Witness," and "The Post American." Some of his other books are "A Private and Public Faith," "Free In Obedience," "Count It All Joy," "The Bishop Pike Affair," and "Instead of Death." He and Towne are now writing the authorized biography of Bishop Pike, which is expected to be published late 1975.

Dr. Stringfellow is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States and those of New York and Rhode Island. He is a past special deputy attorney general in New York and has served many jurisdictions as a consultant to commissions on human rights.

Dr. Stringfellow will be on campus Thursday night April 17 at 8:00 in Hardy Alumni Hall. This is sponsored by the Campus Christian Association and Convocation co-ordinating committee.

Rehearsals Begin

The casts have been slated and rehearsals are underway for Stage and Script's spring productions of student directed One Acts. Performances will be in Howard Chapel on April 24 and 25 at 8:00.

Heather Jordan and Hall Hummel star in "Night" under the direction of Ellen Murphy.

Jackie Parker directs three short plays which are derived from improvisations. Ivan Price plays the part of "The Miner". Hal Hummell portraying the auditioner and Pete Bogardus as the actor auditioning for the part of Tarzan appear in "One Leg Too Few". Ernestine Cobb and Taunya Norton make up the cast for "Real Class".

Appearing in the "Tridget of Greva" under the direction of Mary Kay McKown are William Hass and Laffler, Jim Sumrell as Barhooter and Ivan Price as Corby.

"Slam the Door, Softly" under the direction of Raulo Benoit will complete the night of One Acts. Peete Bogardus and Tonja Lamm star.

Greenhouse For Sale?

Last week, two small greenhouses were erected beside the larger permanent greenhouse on campus as a result of a short-term lease with the Allied Chemical Company. The college has leased out the larger permanent greenhouse and is using the smaller ones to carry on its normal activities. The company is using the greenhouse to conduct research that is a part of a larger experimental program being conducted throughout the entire country.

When the lease, which administrators feel will be advantageous to the college, is expired the smaller greenhouses will be sold and the college will move back into and continue its activities in the larger greenhouse.

Nakhre

Dr. Amrut Nakhre, assistant professor of political science at Atlantic Christian College, has accepted an invitation to serve as coordinator of the Foreign-Born Political Scientists who are teaching in North Carolina, at the annual conference of the North Carolina Political Science Association, which will be held in Charlotte, April 4-5.

As coordinator he will lead a discussion of common problems that foreign-born political scientists face, discussion of possible panel topics for the 1976 meeting which would be of interest to foreign-born political scientists, and assist in selection of a coordinator for the groups for the organization's 1976 meeting.

Honors Choir Festival

The second annual Honors Choir Festival, sponsored by the Atlantic Christian College Department of Music, will be held on the college campus, Saturday, March 22. The event will be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Honors Choir is a collegiate tribute to the best student singers of 23 neighboring high school choirs. Members from each of the choirs elect the best two sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses.

Outstanding Educators

Two members of the Atlantic Christian College faculty, Marvin L. Lamb, instructor in music, and David M. Webb, assistant professor of education, have been selected as Outstanding Educators of America for 1975.

Each year those chosen are featured in a national awards volume, "Outstanding Educators of America." Nominations for the program are made by officials of colleges and universities including presidents, deans and department chairmen.

Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition. They were nominated by their department chairmen.

Multiple Choice Concert

The Atlantic Christian College Contemporary Chamber Players will perform Multiple Choice Concert, tonight at 8 p.m., in the choral room of Hackney Music Building, on the college campus.

Participating will be teachers of compositions, students of composition, or combinations of both. The concert will present works by Ronald Follas, Roger Hannay, and ACC students Michelle Walker, Thomas Denton, Patricia Harrison and David Arnold.

Works will feature compositions for solo piano, brass, brass with tape, solo violin, synthesizer and a ragtime multi-media event.

The concert is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Short Subject

An intramural Golf Tournament will begin on April 17-30. To participate you must play a qualifying round, and turn your scorecard in so you can be placed in a flight, before April 17. The qualifying rounds began on April 9 and all rounds must be played at Wedgewood Country Club. If there are any questions, please contact the Intramural Dept.

Dr. Edward E. Azar will speak in Hardy Alumni Hall on Thursday, April 24. Dr. Azar is an associate professor of Political Science at the University of N. C. at Chapel Hill. His topic will be "The Middle Eastern Muddle". The program is sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Spring Plant Sale

In the latter part of April and early May the Science Club will be selling the plants they have been raising throughout the year for the purpose of gaining funds for the club. These sales will be open to the public as they have been in the past and will include, for the most part, ferns and tomato plants.

Last year the club sold their plants at Sunday in the Park, an annual springtime event in Wilson. Many people, other than simply students, are looking forward to the sale in anticipation of getting good plants at comparatively good prices.
