Good Evening!

TOP NEWS OF THE DAY

On the national scene: it has been reported that Texaco is withholding 500 billion cubic feet of natural gas which could be used to ease this winter's fuel shortage ... the Supreme Court is considering a case of reverse discrimination ... President Carter has proposed a national budget of $459.4 billion ... the House Ethics Committee is investigating improper and possibly illegal lobbying by South Korea on Capital Hill ... On the international scene: the guerilla war rages on in Rhodesia — Prime Minister Ian Smith is still convinced he can bring about a peaceful settlement there ... Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is in the middle east trying to negotiate a peace settlement ... the United States will send a delegation to Hanoi to discuss the possibility of reopening normal diplomatic relations ... Spain is struggling to form a democratic government after the absolute rule of Franco.

PEACE PILGRIM

The Peace Pilgrim will continue her visit to the campus tomorrow — she will speak in several social science classes. All students are invited to attend. Look for announcements outside H219. If you would like her to speak before a group, contact the Social Science Dept.

DIZZY GILLESPIE

AT STATE

Dizzy Gillespie, the famed jazz trumpet player, will appear in concert at the Stewart Theatre on the campus of N.C. State University, Wednesday, March 2 at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

STUDENT ELECTIONS

All students wishing to file for any student government office should submit a written statement to Ricky Clayton, SGA president, by March 1.

SLIDE PRESENTATION

There will be a color slide presentation entitled "Artifacts from King Tut's Tomb" tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the choral room of the Music Building. Guest speaker will be J. M. Daniel Jr. The program is sponsored by the Wilson County Historical Society. No admission will be charged.

TEACHERS SCHOLARSHIP

There will be a meeting of all students who are receiving the North Carolina State Prospective Teachers Scholarship Loan on Wednesday, March 2 in the Choral Room. Mr. Jim Speight, of the State Dept. of Education, will be the guest speaker. This is an important meeting so please make every effort to attend.

Students Asked: What Should Be Done With The Fountain?

By DALE ADAMS

What would you have done with four miscalculated cornerstones made for the roof of a building, say for example, the Hamlin Student Center? Well, with the imagination of the Greeks of '67 and the manpower of Jones Construction Company, you could have built a fountain! Had the construction of the Student Center gone according to plan, the space in front of the Center could very well be empty. But through the ingenuity of

Jeff Webb: "I'd like for the fountain to stay in some form. It's a point of attention on the campus. It could be improved; it is kind of plain as it is."

Mike Joyner: "We should keep it, but it shouldn't be empty."

Debra Johnson: "I want it left where it is. It's somewhere for students to gather and talk, especially in the spring."

Nita Parker: "I think they should cut it on, if people wouldn't abuse it. I definitely think that it should stay, but it should be used."

Debra Lane: "It should stay; I don't think they should turn it into a planter."

Mike Sawyer: "It's called a fountain therefore it should serve as a fountain. If there are problems that limit its use as a fountain, they should be corrected. If there is concern about abuse, all fountains are abused. Our fountain should serve as a fountain. I don't think they should turn it into a planter. Then it would really be abused. The Greeks gift should be respected."

Ray Silverthorne: "I'd like to see it running without soap suds. It should be larger, have more jets, and be lighted at night. It would be nice if they could put some rock pebbles in the bottom. I'd like to know how they're going to keep it clean."

All members of the Beautification Committee have shown great interest in obtaining student opinion on this matter. They would welcome yours. Dr. Graham heads this committee and is concerned about the student's wishes. He and others on the committee would like to hear from you. Perhaps they will not be able to comply with all wishes such as Ron Morton's who suggested "a nude Greek statue that sprays water" or G. Todd's, who suggested that they "put in a few sharks," but it is certain that the committee will do their best to please the majority of the students.

At The Center

several Greek organizations, our fountain was completed in 1968.

Today, the Campus Beautification Committee is trying to decide what to do with the fountain. Due to problems with water volume and leakage, it has not been operating this year. According to Mr. Lee Moore, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, this type of problem is not new. It seems that there has always been some type of problem with inadequate water pressure. If the fountain is to remain in working order, several adjustments will be necessary. The Beautification Committee has considered several alternatives, among which is the idea of transforming the fountain into a planter. The Collegiate, at the request of the committee, asked several students to voice their opinions on the matter. If these students are representative of the whole, it seems that the student body stands united: they want the fountain to stay.

The following individuals were kind enough to state their opinion.

News in Brief

Dr. Wenger Suffers Heart Attack

Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of the college, suffered a heart attack while at his home last Saturday afternoon. He was admitted to the intensive care unit of the Wilson Memorial Hospital; he cannot receive, as yet, visitors. His condition is listed as fair to poor according to the patient information service at the hospital. Dr. Wenger is expected to be incapacitated for some time — it is impossible at this time to determine exactly how long.

Chamber Ensemble Performs

The Atlantic Christian College Contemporary Chamber Ensemble will perform at the 2nd Annual North Carolina State Composers Symposium to be held at Salem College today.

The ensemble specializes in performing 20th century experimental music. Serving as conductor is Marvin Lamb, of the ACC music faculty.

The ensemble will perform two works by Atlantic Christian College composer, "Phonemes" for acappella choir, by Lamb, and "11-11-18" for indeterminate ensemble, by J. Ross Albert, chairman of the ACC Department of Music.

The North Carolina State Composers Symposium is a three-day invitational series of concerts, student music reading sessions and lectures held on the Salem College Campus. Speaker for this years symposium is Robert Ward, Pulitzer Prize winning composer.

Following his speech, Dr. Ward will be joined by Lamb, Albert and Thomas Turner, composer-in residence at UNC-Charlotte, for an open seminar on the topic, "Whither Wander Music?"

The North Carolina State Composers Symposium is sponsored by Salem College, North Carolina School of the Arts and a grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation.

Art Students Visit New York

The third annual Art Department trip to New York City began on Wednesday, February 9 when four art faculty members and twenty students left Atlantic Christian at 5:30 a.m. Stopping in Washington, D.C., the group visited the Hirschorn Museum, the National Gallery of Art, and the Phillips Collection. Tired but excited, they reached New York City around 9:00 p.m.

On Thursday, informal groups went to the Metropolitan and Guggenheim Museums and to private galleries. Groups went to the Frick Collection, the Museum of Modern Art, the Cloisters, and to China Town on Friday. Some went to the Brooklyn Museum by subway on Saturday, then on to Greenwich Village, and later to the Rockefeller Center for ice skating. Before leaving New York, some saw the play "Godspell," the movie "A Star is Born," the Empire State Building, Times Square, St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Rockefeller Center, and many stores and shops (and delis).

On the fifth day of the trip, the group left the Big Apple at 9:30 a.m. for the Philadelphia Museum of Art. After 485 miles, the weary but enlightened and inspired artists arrived back in Wilson around 11:00 p.m. Sunday.
