

Photo courtesy Home Economics Department

Initiated into Kappa Omicron Phi National Economics Honor Society were Gelenia Aaron, Roberta Judd, Sundeany Ford, Linda Hinnett Fields, Darlene Donnell, Audrey Deleston, and Phyllis Gray. Also pictured is Rose Irby who will be initiated at a later date.

7 initiated to Kappa Omicron Phi

Seven Home Economics majors at Bennett College were recently elected to Kappa Omicron Phi, a national Home Economics Honor Society.

These students were inducted into Delta Mu Chapter at North Carolina A&T State University along with 16 Home Economics majors from the department at A&T.

Seniors inducted were: Gelenia Aaron, clothing major from Charlotte, North Carolina; Audrey Deleston, clothing major from Charleston, South Carolina; Darlene Donnell, clothing major from Greensboro, North Carolina; Linda Hinnant Fields, clothing major from Sims, North Carolina; and Sundeany Ford, clothing major from Crewe, Virginia.

Juniors inducted were: Phyllis Gray, clothing major from Greensboro, North Carolina; and Roberta C. Judd, home economics education major from Greensboro, North Carolina.

Founded in 1922, Kappa Omicron Phi is one of three national Honor Societies in the field of home economics. Kappa Omicron Phi places emphasis on intellectual and scholastic excellence. A minimum grade point average of subjects and an overall grade 3.0 is required in home economics point average of 2.7 on a 4.0 scale.

Seniors' will to college

by Marion Johnson

With papers still due, tests and final exams still to come, many seniors in the class of 1979 feel that graduation is a milestone away. However, reflecting on the numerous experiences during the last four years at Bennett, May 13 seems to move a little bit closer. To help ease the 'pain' of being a senior, several '79 graduates decided to will various items to the college, faculty members or

Here sprinkled with humor, love and a few with a tone of seriousness, are some of the "Last Wills and Testaments of the Class

I, Ardelia Davis, "being of sound mind and body leave Bennett . . . in a hurry!"

JoAnne Moore of Morganton, North Carolina leaves "Player Hall room 114, all my cookies and cereal to my sister Debra Moore."

Deborah Hart of Miami, Florida wills "All my positive thinking to the rising seniors who will be student teaching next year, because they'll need it."

Anyone who has eaten in the cafeteria at all during her academic career at Bennett can agree with the will of Felecia Burton from Washington, D. C.: "I, Felecia Burton, will my gas pains and indigestion to the cafeteria and to you, Mrs. Jones as dietitian."

A future psychologist, Veda Saunders, wills her brain to Dr. Trader, who will someday be one of her professional associates.

The author of many informative and inspirational editorials, Deborah Tillman, "Banner" editor for 1978-79, says to her Bennett sisters, "I, Deborah Tillman, will to all the underclassmen, lots of luck and the ability to further cope with the ups and downs of college."

A native of Raeford, North Carolina, Sharon McCormick also left a message to the underclassmen: "Take life seriously because this, Bennett College, is one of the biggest jokes in your life."

present freshman English courses,

English 101, 102, 103 and 104, the present reading courses, Reading

101 and 102, and Drama 105 (or 106): Fundamentals of Speech.

Therefore, all of these courses will be phased out over a period of time, beginning with the dropping of Reading 101-102 from the English 103 will be offered for the last time in the fall of 1979,

and English 104 will be offered for the last time in the spring of 1980. Drama 105 (or 106) will be phased out as the need of present

The Communications Department suggests that any student who needs English 103 or 104 to graduate enroll in it for the coming year or plan to take it at schedule as of next fall.

students is met.

another institution.

On a less serious note is the will of Marilyn Brimmage of Mount Olive, North Carolina: "To Sandra Ratliff I bequeath my gorgeous smile and to JoEllen Paige I leave my pillow."

Rosa Faulk was busy running around in preparation for the Business Week sponsored by the Business Club when she paused to give her will: "I leave to the member of the Business Club, my ability to motivate and stimulate students' interest in the world of husiness"

Now every class has its members who party and its members who PARTY! From the class of '79's PARTY people is the will of Yvette Smyre of Charlotte, North Carolina: "I, Yvette Smyre, bequeath room 212 in Player Hall, newly painted white by its present inhabitants, and white because it is symbolic of that which is pure and clean. I leave this room to any rising senior who is capable of maintaining the standards set by the present occupants."

One of the favorite shows watched by college students on Saturday mornings in the "Pink Panther" cartoon show. So from Bennett's own "Pink Panther," Venessa Lane, is her will: "I leave to Bennett my P. P., Pink Panther, in the hopes that everyone can be so cool!"

If allowed ethically to leave my last will I'd like to do so: "I, Marion Johnson, being of sound mind and body leave to my Bennett sisters my ability to think logically and intelligently, to reason out and explore the world of learning. But also not to get so involved in education that you neglect the other parts of your personal development. Become and stay involved in various campus activities. These too aid in the production of a total woman. Above all, to my Bennett sisters, I want to leave all the love that has grown inside of me for this college and the people who work and study here. This is a four-year segment out of your life. Make the most of it!"

New requirements in communications skills for class of

A new general education requirement designed to increase the communication skills of students will be in effect for the freshman class entering in the fall of 1979.

Four new courses designed to integrate skills in writing, reading and speaking were approved by the faculty this spring for implementation next fall. All students will take at least three of the four courses and most will take all four.

Communications Skills 101 will integrate work on basic writing skills with the development of reading skills. Approximately 75 percent of the entering freshman class is expected to be placed in this course.

Students may be exempted from taking Communications Skills 101

Edwina Johnson

if their scores on the SAT Verbal and on the Test of Standard Written English, given at the same time as the SAT Verbal, are high enough.

Communications Skills 102 will continue the development of reading skills, introduce students to the major rhetorical modes and develop their essay-writing skills. All students entering in the fall of 1979 will take this course.

Communication Skills 103 will develop basic speech skills and introduce students to the major genres of literature as a basis for further development of writing skills and analytical skills. All students entering in 1979 will be required to take this course.

Finally, Communications Skills 104 will be designed to develop research techniques, research writing, and public speaking. All students entering in 1979 will also take this course.

All four courses will carry four semester hours of credit and will meet four hours a week. It is anticipated that in Communications Skills 101 and 102 the time will be divided as follows: 2 hours with the English teacher, 1 hour with the reading teacher, and 1 hour in the Computer Assisted Instruction Laboratory.

In Communications Skills 103 and 104 the time would be divided equally between the English classes and the speech classes.

These courses will replace the

WORD QUIZ ANSWERS

1. Number is correct; amount may refer only to things that are uncountable, e.g. A large amount of milk was spilled.

Fewer is correct; less can refer only to amounts: less milk than I thought was spilled. Fewer refers to number. 3. Among is correct; between is used only for two people or objects, e.g., an argument between Mary and Jane; among is used for more than two people or objects. 4. Because is correct; being that is considered by most grammarians to be a corrupt form; so is being as when one means since: e.g., since (not being as) I was going, I took the bus.

That is correct; since a reason and a cause are the same thing, reason is because is redundant. (Since a reason explains why, most grammarians also reject reason

Recognition Day honors Continued from Page 1 Hoffman-La Roche Inc. Assistantships

Natalie McLean Pamela Morris Yvette Shelton Tonni Sullivan Edwina Wilson Honeywell Inc. Scholarships in Engineering Vickie Lockett Arlissa Lowe Linda Smith Outstanding Achievements in Yearbook Ellen Brinkley Publication Marcelle Miranda Jennifer Jones Angel Bynum Departmental Recognition Edwina Wilson Biology Dino Bradley Marcelle Miranda Chemistry Karen Ferguson Clothing and Textiles Darlene Donnell Elementary and Special Education Loretta Bryant Brenda Tyson Bertha Dolberry English Marion Johnson Deborah Tillman Ramona Reid Vaughnetta Carr Home Economics Education Lucinda Brunson Mathematics Rosalyn Scott (piano) Katie Dotson (organ) Angela Bynum (voice) Physical Education, Health and Recreation Marilyn Wilson Ardelia Davis Psychology Franzine Franklin Secondary and Professional Studies ... Doris Davis (Media)

Kathy Lewis Kimberly Merritt Dorothy Brown Carolyn Davis

Jane Miller Jones Scholarship Cup Drama Awards Josie Hudley Libby Malloy Joan Walker Jennifer Wells

Artreatha Tharrington Hattie Purnell Grace Phillips

Junior Class 2.7371

Lucinda Brunson (Secondary Education)

Co-Operative Education Awards

Anita Ford Vanessa Bartley Franzine Franklin Marilyn Brimmage Velveeta Dawkins Viola Hemphill Rosa Faulk Marcelle Miranda

Beverly Randolph Deborah Williamson Karen Ferguson

Underclass sisters: don't stop climbing till you reach goal

Continued from Page 2

goal, but when you have helped someone accomplish hers. Underclass sisters, you have begun a very important climb in your life. I extend my hand to you saying you can make it to the top. You can make it because you have taken the initiative to begin this task. Initiative, confidence and determination are all you need to make this journey. Initiative, confidence and determination are what carried me to the top of my mountain; and I am sure that they will carry you to the top of yours.

And if when I get to the top of the next great mountain I see that there are others still greater, I will climb on and on until finally I will reach a point where I can look down to see not barren rocks but beautiful green valleys.

As I stand ready to begin a new climb I wonder what I'll find at the top. But it doesn't matter much because the point is not what you find at the top, it's just having reached the top of your chosen mountain. And once you have reached a mountain from which you can see beautiful surroundings and gain a sense of satisfatcion and contentment and can pat yourself on the back and say "Well done," then, my sisters, you can stop your climbing once and for all. I wonder if there is such a mountain?

To all my sisters in the graduating class of '79 I wish you all the luck and blessings in the world. To my underclass sisters, we the class of '79 are waiting for you . . . at the top of the first mountain.

Clothing majors presented a fashion show entitled "Follow the Sun" to a very receptive, standing room only crowd. Pictured left to right are Lorie Raikes, Yvette Lewis, Valerie Littlejohn and Laurie Asbury.