

Claire gives advice about love to many

Dear Claire,

Is it possible to love two men at the same time? I love my boyfriend at home very much and yet I find that I am attracted to a man here in Greensboro. Each day I feel more and more deeply for the man here. I wonder if my feelings for this man in Greensboro are real or if they are just reactions to the loneliness I feel about my boyfriend at home. Do I love them both?

TORN BETWEEN TWO LOVERS

Dear TORN BETWEEN
TWO LOVERS,

The possibility of being in love with two men at the same time does exist. I can not determine your true feelings about the man in Greensboro. If you find that you are becoming more attracted to this man, you should decide if you want this relationship to develop any further, or stay involved in your present relationship with your boyfriend at home.

Dear Claire,

I am twenty years old and I have never been in love before. I have felt deeply for men, but not loved them. I don't think I'm a lesbian or anything, but the fact remains that I have never given all of myself to a man. I'm getting older and I'm running out of time and patience. Please advise me.

LOVELESS

Dear LOVELESS,

Not to have fallen in love by the age of twenty is nothing unusual. It's fine to have deep feelings for someone and still get fulfillment from the relationship without being in love. Love has to grow from within, and different individuals experience it for the first time at different points in their lives. There is plenty of time for you to fall in love. Just because you haven't yet, doesn't mean you never will. Dear Claire,

I am only interested in men who are at least ten years older than me. I will be nineteen next month and I have never enjoyed a date with a man who wasn't at least twenty-eight years old. Am I weird? Younger men just don't satisfy my needs as well as older men do. Is something wrong with me?

BIG GIRL

Dear BIG GIRL,

You don't have to be weird

Media club off to a successful start

Yolanda DuRant

The Media Club held its first meeting on Oct. 23, 1980. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 14, 1980 to organize the club, elect officers, set up meeting dates, and vote on the constitution.

Some projects the Media Club plans are to establish a Media newsletter, have a mini-media workshop for the faculty during the school year, and establish a "Media Day" on campus.

The purpose of the Media Club is to promote the Media program on campus and to service teachers, staff members, and other students in their need for the media. The to prefer dating older men for your own personal reasons. Perhaps if you dated men closer to your age more frequently, you may discover you have more in common with them than you realized, and some of your dates could turn out to be quite successful.

Annual communications conference to be held at Howard

Jeneane Brown

The Howard University Communications Conference, to be held Feb. 12-16, 1981, is an opportunity for top journalism students to be interviewed for possible future positions.

Seniors who wish to attend the upcoming conference may apply for a stipend to cover some expenses. The stipend will cover the cost of the hotel room for four nights (shared) and admission to all conference events.

Howard University will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the annual conference with the theme "The Impact of Communication on the Family: Responsibilities and Strategies." The conference will begin on Thursday, Feb. 12 and all students with stipends must arrive no later than 4 o'clock that afternoon.

Students who wish to apply for job interviews must fill out forms which will be given out by Dr. Trobian in the Science Building #314. To avoid confusion please follow these guidelines: Students applying for stipends must be seniors majoring in journalism (or a related field leading to a career in journalism). The students must have completed the Student Stipend Application form and have it endorsed by the Department Chairman or Dean. If the students would like interviews they must complete an Interview Application Form and submit five copies of a resume.

Students must arrive no later than Thursday, Feb. 12, at 4 p.m. and go directly to the Harambee House Hotel located at 2225 Georgia Ave. N.W., Washington, D. C. There will be no substitutions after Jan. 23; no application forms will be accepted after Jan. 12.

The underclass students not eligible for the stipends should try to win the contest for essays on the theme of the conference; details are posted on a third floor bulletin board in the Pfeiffer Science Building.

The other students who would like to attend the conference will pay the Registration fee of $10.00; the Luncheon of Feb. 14 is $11.00, the Banquet is $12.00 and four people to a room at the Harambee House Hotel will be $66.00 (per night). They are only able to accommodate one hundred students so prepare now for the upcoming event.

program included history, Dr. Robert Miller discussed history in relation to the humanities. Members of the visiting team were Mr. Charles Rogers, Art; Mrs. Charlie Butler, Music; Dr. Thomas, History; Dr. Ayton, Foreign Languages, and Dr. Turner represented Literature.

The purpose of the visit was for the faculty team to obtain descriptions of non-traditional curricula they might assess as alternative models. Bennett was among the schools that attracted their attention as having good humanities and interdisciplinary programs. The Bennett faculty and Johnson C. Smith faculty enjoyed their engagement in active discussion and interchange of ideas.

Faculty team interchanges ideas

On Wednesday, Oct. 15, the Humane Studies, chaired by Dr. Helen Trobian, hosted a five-member faculty team from Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C.

The team, led by Dr. Joseph W. Turner, Director of a Humanities Faculty Development Program, visited Bennett to talk with members of the faculty about interdisciplinary and humanities courses. Morning, luncheon, and afternoon presentations to the team were made by Mrs. Geraldine A. Totten, Humanities; Dr. Ruth Lucier and Dr. Helen Trobian, Interdisciplinary Studies; and since the Johnson C. Smith

UNCF campaign begins

The 1980 Bennett College-United Negro College Fund Campaign began on Nov. 6 with the annual Corporate Luncheon at the Greensboro City Club.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, founder of the United Negro College Fund and former president of Tuskegee Institute, was the keynote speaker at the luncheon.

This year's $65,000 joint campaign is being led by Alan W. Cone, president of the Tareyton Corporation. Honorary chairman McNeill Smith, an attorney with Smith, Moore, Smith, Schell and Hunter.

The drive represents the only community solicitation made by Bennett College, one of the 41-member Institutions of UNCF. Monies raised provide support for scholarships, faculty development, library expansion, and physical plant improvement.

According to Bennett president Isaac H. Miller, Jr., the women's college will receive 75 percent of the monies raised in the Greensboro, High Point, and Burlington areas. The remaining 25 percent becomes part of the national UNCF Campaign and returns to the college as part of a larger distribution. In 1979, as a result of $59,485 raised locally, Bennett received over $300,000 from the national campaigns.

Dr. Miller attributes increased area in the local effort to enthusiastic volunteer leadership from the volunteer leadership from the business community, fraternal and service organizations, and churches. He announced the Greensboro Chapter of Links will aid the joint campaign by conducting the fourth annual UNCF Phonathon, Nov. 11-13.

Cosmotique answers health and beauty questions

Q. What is the easiest way to remove eye make-up?

A. Eye make-up, once applied, can be stubborn to remove, but you must remember that your eyes are very delicate and they should never be rubbed or harshly treated. There are cosmetic eye make-up remover sticks available in drugstores and at department store make-up counters. A good one to try is Regime eye make-up remover stick by Jermaine Montel. Another simple way to remove eye make-up is through use of a cotton ball and plain baby oil. Dab a little oil onto cotton ball and apply gently over eyelid until all make-up is gone.

Q. Over the summer, I put on some weight and now all my winter clothes are fitting me a little tightly. What kind of diet would you suggest?

A. Before you decide on any type of diet you must first decide how much weight you want to lose and how much time you want to give yourself to lose the weight. Crash-diets are never good methods of losing weight. Start by cutting calories that are not important essentials to your body's health. Also I'd suggest that while dieting you take vitamins with iron so you can be sure you're not neglecting your body's basic needs.

Q. I am a clothing and design major here at Bennett. I like the field I've chosen to study, but at times I get discouraged because I am not as artistically inclined as my fellow clothing and design peers. Am I in the wrong field?

A. According to Mary Stephens, Chairman of The Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising, "The fashion design faculty believes that a fashion designer should be creative, imaginative, original and capable of translating ideas into finished garments. Artistic talent is an asset, of course, but motivation and willingness to be trained are as important as natural ability." If you have the determination to pursue this glamorous career in clothing and design I suggest you are in the right major.
