Goff-Leary

Characterized with impressive beauty was the wedding on Saturday afternoon, May 18, 1935, of Miss Annie Lucretia Goff and Clifton Harris Lea: y, both of this city.

The wedding was solemnized in the beautiful Hanes Memorial Chapel of Centenary Methodist church, with the Rev. G. Ray Jordan, pastor of both the bride and bridegroom, officiating, using the impressive ring ceremony. The chapel was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the altar being banked with palms and ferns, and with lovely Southern smilax, intersected with tall floor baskets of beautiful white peonies and lilies. Tall cathedral candles softly lighted the altar where the vows were spoken.

Prior to the taking of the vows, a lovely program of nuptial music was rendered with Mrs. E. R Clapp at the organ, and with Miss Alice Luvisa soloist.

Mrs. Clapp played as the first number, "Bridal Song," by Rogers. They Miss Luvisa sang with delightful charm "At Dawning," by Cadman. With interpretative beauty, Mrs. Clapp then rendered

Mis. Jouah Lyon spent Saturday night in High Point, the guest of he⁻⁻ daughter, Mrs. Charlie Transou.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hayes and Thomas Hayes spent Sunday with their grandfather. Frank Cooper. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reavis. of Courtney, and Mr. and Mrs. Duke Whitaker and family of Mocks-

"Traumerii", by Schumann. Following this number Miss Luvisa sweetly sang "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. During the ceremony, Mrs. Clapp played softly "O, Perfect Love", by Burleigh. "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin (Wagner) was used as the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional.

Ushers for the wedding were Robert Harris and William Harris, both of this city.

Miss Lena Mae Goff. sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a lovely afternoon gown of delicate flesh pink mousseline de soie, with a picture hat and white kid gloves. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds and blue cornflowers.

The charming bride was given in marriage by her brother, Elbert E. Goff. Her lovely wedding dress was an afternoon gown of white mouseline de soie, fashioned with a tight bodice and long, full, sash of white satin. She wore as a complement to her costume a large white picture hat, trimmed with dainty white rosebuds. Her gloves and shoes were of white kid and she carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley and white orchids.

She was met at the altar by the bridegroom attended by his brother, Edward B. Leary, of New York. For the final blessing, the bride and bridegroom knelt on a dainty white satin cushion.

Mrs. Leary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Goff, of this city, and is a young woman of charming personality.

Mr. Leary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Leary, of Portsmouth, Va., but has lived in Winston-Salem for the past eight years, where he holds a responsible position with the Chatham Manufacturing Company.

This popular young couple have a host of friends who wish for them every happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Leary left immediately after the ceremony for an extended wedding trip. After June 1, they will be at home to their friends at the Shenandoah Apartments on West End Boulevard, this city.

Mrs. Leary wore as her goingaway suit a navy blue crepe dress, trimmed with white pique, with accessories to match.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Goff delightfully entertained the members of the bridal party and the out-of-town guests Friday evening at an informal reception at their home on Spruce street, following the rehearsal at Centenary church.

Teacher: "Why are your sums always done in this old-fashioned way?

Notice the sums that Johnnie Smith brings to school.

Boy: "Well, he's got a father--I've only got a grandfather.
